NAVAL PARLEY NOW IS IN FIELD OF COMPROMISE

Two Series of Proposals, British and French, for Measuring Navies, Discussed for First Time by London Conference in Committee; Exchange of Views Described as Frank; Delegates Will Continue Efforts

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent
London, Feb. 4.—The Naval Limitation Conference here has entered a period of compromise. The conference met today as a committee of the whole, but the heads of the respective five delegations did not participate. They were meeting elsewhere. The British tonnage compromise was submitted to the committee, but it was the earlier French compromise that formed the basis of discussion. Even more so was the modified form into which the French proposals were put since they were made public.

DISCUSSION IS FRANK
The discussion afterward was described as frank, with reservations to a certain extent being made by all countries. Admiral Siriani of Italy renewed the Italian reservations, which urged consideration first of the determination of relative naval strengths and then of the total to be given to nations, the aim of the Italians being to gain recognition of their right to naval parity with France.

MAN KILLS HIS TWO CHILDREN AND IS KILLED

Tragedy Due to Insanity of White Manager of Native Australian Island

Lowitville, Queensland, Australia, Feb. 4.—Two natives from a native island settlement not twenty miles away from here to-day reported R. R. Curry, superintendent of the island, had gone insane and killed his two children, shot two comrades and subsequently was killed himself.
A launch with a medical officer, police and provisions left for the scene and returned shortly with Dr. Patterson and the matron, both of whom were in a serious condition.
They had also with them the body of Superintendent Curry, who, it was alleged, ran amok Sunday and shot several persons after setting fire to buildings.
He then left for a nearby island, but returned and was shot dead by a native. In the ruins of his house were found the bodies of his son and daughter.
It was believed Curry had worried over certain charges that he was maltreating the natives, among whom he had spent his life.

Larkin Leaves Great Name, Says Premier

Death Robs Canada of Citizen and Public Servant of Most Admirable Type, Declares Mr. King in Tribute to Late High Commissioner's Work

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Feb. 4.—"In the death of the Honorable Peter C. Larkin, Canada has sustained the loss of a most distinguished and public-spirited citizen."
These are the opening words of a tribute from Premier King to the late Canadian High Commissioner at London.
The statement continues:
"It is eight years since Mr. Larkin was appointed to the position of High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain. His was almost the first appointment to be made by the present administration. For many years, however, before he left for London to represent the Government of Canada in Great Britain Mr. Larkin had held a position of outstanding prominence in business, political and philanthropic circles in our country."
BUSINESS LEADERSHIP
"His sound judgment and untiring industry had enabled him to build up a great international business and trade, with executive offices in Great Britain, the United States and Canada, and business establishments in these countries, in India and in other parts of the world. In business circles he was

BROMLEY IS SOON TO TRY OCEAN HOP

Orders Plane For His Third Tacoma-Tokio Non-stop Effort

Machine Will Be of Same Type as Lindbergh's New One

Los Angeles, Feb. 4.—An attempt to make a solo aeroplane flight from Tacoma to Tokyo between two and three months hence is in prospect. This has been learned here following the placing of an order for a Lockheed-Sirius monoplane by Lieut. Harold Bromley, formerly of Victoria, B.C.

Work is to be started immediately on the large low-winged ship, specially designed by Lockheed engineers to carry 750 gallons of gasoline. It is expected to be completed within sixty days, with the Tacoma take-off scheduled a short time later.

The new ship will be the same type as the one recently purchased by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Instead of having two cockpits, however, it will be built for solo flying, the space taken up by the second cockpit of the Lindbergh plane to be utilized for extra fuel tanks.
The plane will be powered with a 300-horsepower Junior Wasp motor, with an estimated fuel consumption of from twelve to fourteen gallons an hour for the 4,700-mile non-stop hop from Tacoma to the Orient. A forty-one-foot wing-spread will be called on to lift the giant load Bromley deems necessary to get him across the ocean.

THIRD PLANE
This will be Bromley's third plane built for the Tokio flight—the first one ground-looping before he could take off at Tacoma early last summer and the second crashing in a test flight a short time later.
Bromley came here from El Paso, Tex., to order the plane for the flight, which is being backed by the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce. He has been flying and air line between El Paso and Mexico City.

GRAIN EXCHANGE AT WINNIPEG HAS NEW SECRETARY

James R. Murray Succeeds the Late Dr. Robert Magill

Winnipeg, Feb. 4.—James R. Murray, assistant general manager of the United Grain Growers Limited, has been appointed secretary of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.
Mr. Murray, whose appointment was announced to-day, succeeds Dr. Robert Magill, who died recently at Battle Creek, Mich.
Mr. Murray has been assistant general manager of the United Grain Growers since he was appointed in 1915 as assistant to Hon. T. A. Coughlin, who retired last month as general manager, when he entered the Federal Cabinet. He has a wide knowledge of the grain business, from farm to export, and is one of the prominent grain growers of Canada.
LIVED IN CALGARY
Twenty-two years ago Mr. Murray, as a young man, joined the United Grain Growers at Calgary. Three years later he had been placed in charge of the office, and was brought to the head office in Winnipeg to become chief of the commission department.
He was born in Limerick, County, Ireland, and received his early education in the south of Ireland and at Reading, England. He completed his education at Trinity College, Dublin.

MORE FACTORIES FOR PRAIRIES ARE NOW PREDICTED

Moose Jaw, Sask., Feb. 4.—Opening of the Churchill railway outlet of the Hudson Bay sea route will force construction of western branch factories by eastern manufacturers, in the opinion of Alfred E. Rogers, Winnipeg natural resources engineer. Speaking before the Winnipeg Board of Trade, he forecast that low distribution rates of imported manufactured goods would necessitate expansion by eastern houses.
Many more cents would come to the farmers for each bushel of Saskatchewan grain, due to the lower freight haul, promised Mr. Rogers.

THREE DAYS' RAIN PASSES MONTH TOTAL

According to the gauges at the Cordova Observatory, the total precipitation yesterday afternoon and evening was 56 inches, bringing the total rainfall this month to 1.55 inches. The precipitation last month, both rain and snow, was 1.25 inches.

Liberals Fight For Nanaimo Proposals On Miners' Compensation

Three Divisions Demanded When Pearson's Suggested Amendments to Act Are Dropped From Order Papers; Pattullo, Manson and Mackenzie Charge Government With Violating Members' Rights and Challenge Ruling of Speaker

Vigorously voiced protests of Liberal members against the ruling of Mr. Speaker Jones in dropping the bill from the order papers of the B.C. Legislature the bill sponsored by G. W. Pearson, Liberal, Nanaimo, to amend the Compensation Act, started the first heavy exchange of verbal machine gun fire in the B.C. Legislature yesterday.
Friday Mr. Pearson asked leave to introduce the bill which calls for hernia to be classed as a disability under the act, and for full payment of compensation when a man had so far recovered from a disability that he was only able to do light work, but was unable to find light work to do. Classification of hernia under the act, it has been mentioned at previous sessions, is particularly sought by miners subject to the trouble because of the nature of their work.

MANSON OPENS
A. M. Manson, K.C., marked his first appearance in the House this session by drawing down a storm of fire from Government members on his head as he stood his ground and fought to get the bill back on the order papers. House had granted leave for the bill to be introduced. It had not been distributed and was dropped off the order papers, he protested.
"Somebody is in contempt of the orders of the House," he charged.
The bill had been dropped from the order papers because it affected the revenue of the Province and could not be introduced by a private member, Mr. Jones replied.
Mr. Pattullo protected the House should see the bill and decide the point.

NO PROSECUTION FOLLOWS DEATH

Edmonton, Feb. 4.—That there is little likelihood of any criminal action being taken as a result of the death of Miss Ruth Olsen, twenty-seven, who died in a hospital here January 29 as the direct result of side towel being left in her body after a surgical operation, is the opinion expressed by Geo. H. Henwood, Deputy Attorney-General. A coroner's jury last Saturday afternoon exonerated the attending surgeons from any blame.

CUT OF HALF MILL GAINED BY COUNCIL

Report of Special Committee Adopted to Bring 40.50 Mills Levy

City Comptroller Concurs in Action Taken to Balance City Budget

The city's budget for 1930 was balanced last night, after a brief discussion on the report of a special committee which recommended a rate of 40.50 mills and showed how it could be secured. That level was reached with the consent of the city comptroller, who concurred in an increase of anticipated receipts by $7,500 and reductions in expenditures to a similar amount, making the necessary $15,000 required to balance the estimated expenditures of the year.

Mr. MacDonald was instructed to prepare the rate by-law, with 40.50 mills as the figure this year, to be split up between schools, general and debt levies. This will, on an estimated collection of 90.25 per cent, give approximately $1,618,000, which, added to nearly $1,000,000 in receipts, will provide the necessary money for the (Continued on Page 3)

ICE TEARS VESSEL FROM RIVER WHARF

Ss. E. Christensen Battles Floes in Columbia at Vancouver, Wash.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Wash., Feb. 4.—Torn from her moorings at the Vancouver Municipal Dock here at 3 a.m. to-day when the ice broke in the Columbia River and piled against her, the ocean-going steamship Edwin Christensen battled for about two hours in mid-stream before she was able to find a place where her anchors would hold.
The vessel was moored at the dock with three-inch hawsers when the jam struck her. The lines snapped and the ship swung broadside to the ice. For a time the jam threatened bridge down the river from the city, when her anchors would not hold in the channel, she finally swung around and headed up stream, only to be pushed back several times.
It was almost 6 o'clock before the craft was able to find footing for her hooks in the channel.
ICE PILES UP
Ice was piling up the hull in large cakes to-day as the ship awaited two anchors in midstream waiting for a chance to return to the wharf. The coasts were lined with ice, and the vessel arrived here about 8 a.m. to-day, prepared to battle the ice away from the Municipal Dock, where already a small amount of damage had been done.
It was not known here how far the ice break extended up the river. Several log rafts and numerous sawlogs had swept by the city since the break-up, the logs piled up like jackstraws and sweeping down the middle of the stream.

SAANICH TRADE BOARD DEBATES SCHOOL BY-LAW

New High School Loan Measure in March, Trustee Announces

By-law For $85,000 Will Provide Brick Building; Cut Per Capita Costs

Over thirty members of the Saanich Board of Trade last night at the West Saanich Institute Hall considered the high school requirements of Saanich, the subject being introduced by J. E. Sladen, secretary of the board, who attributed defeat of the high school by-law to omission of the School Board to adequately explain costs of construction, equipment, operation and cost per pupil annually.

Reeve William Crouch said, rate-payers feel that a high school costing $85,000 will mean that taxes must go up.

"A high school in Saanich, managed with anything like ordinary business methods, can be built, financed and operated to save money to the rate-payers," he asserted.

"Last year the number of high school pupils was 300, and this year will be 300. With nine or ten teachers and thirty to thirty-five pupils to a room, operating costs will be $24,850 or a cost per pupil of $82.83," he said.

BUILD-BRICK SCHOOL.
"A money by-law for $85,000 with the grant from the Department of Education, will give the School Board something like $110,000. For this sum, I learn, on exceptionally good authority of architects and builders, an up-to-date brick high school, containing ten class-rooms and all other necessary rooms, can be built and equipped ready for use."

"A by-law for $85,000 payable in fifteen years, will annually require $4,250 for interest and $4,700 for sinking funds, a total of $8,950 annually, or a total cost of $33,675 yearly. This divided over 300 pupils means it will cost per pupil under $113. Compare this with what you are now paying the City of Victoria, $120 per pupil."

"The figures are, I believe, over-estimated, but suppose for argument my figures are low and it costs a little more, we have at the end of fifteen years a fine permanent brick high school building and equipment all paid for. On the other hand, if we go on as we are doing, at the end of fifteen years we have nothing but a receipt.

SKIMPING ROADS.
"I would point out that we must supply high school education and it is a portion of the cost is not met by borrowing we will have to skimp on public works and all other work for at least three years if the mill rate stays where it is. The recent frost has damaged all our roads considerably and we now, instead of spending less, should be spending much more on our roads and our public works."

"To me there is only one answer. It is good business and in the best interests of the municipality to build our own high school and to finance the same by a bond issue spread over fifteen years, and at the same time spend extra money on our roads and public works without raising the mill rate."

"I know there are many who favor the pay-as-you-go system, but we cannot so finance the high school. We have given ward road appropriations of $7,500, and can this year set aside $8,500 for wards and have $30,000 for general road betterment. By skimping Saanich could find a substantial sum for the high school and could budget for a deficit, but would not have $45,000, as the board has already had $45,000 to be repaid from the proceeds of a building by-law."

FORTY-TWO MILLIS TAX.
The revee told of increasing demands for police, fire protection and public works, all of which would have to be denied if the high school was to be built from revenue. In any event a policy of paying from revenue would require a levy of forty-two millis. "It would be impossible to build from revenue," he asserted.

TRUSTEE SPEAKS.
William Tomes, chairman of the school board, explained the scope of the proposals rejected at the polls. The central high school at Totmie was to have been built with students who first passed through junior high schools located at Keating, Cloverdale and Tillamook. The system proposed being designed to fit in with impending changes in the educational system now foreseen as certain to be established throughout British Columbia.

"That by-law is dead and buried but the idea which prompted it still lives and must grow and flourish until it brings forth fruit," Mr. Tomes said.

"You will be asked again for approval of a by-law. We do not wish to burden you. I remember when Saanich had a school tax of three millis. Today it is nineteen millis and it will and must be more."

"When we come to you in a few years and ask for another high school, do not look at your trustees with astonishment. Remember that the need for more educational facilities is a sign of the growth of Saanich," he urged.

FEARED "PATCHWORK."
Rev. M. W. J. Bruce, chairman, thanked the revee for his financial statement and Trustee Tomes for his review of educational problems. He believed that the by-laws had failed because the people considered the scheme a patchwork. "Had Mr. Tomes been around Saanich and explained the proposals as he had done this evening, I believe the result at the polls would have been very different," he commented.

The chairman asked Mr. Tomes if a new school could not be more economically built than reconstructing the Totmie School. He was reminded that the cost of converting Totmie School was only $48,000, and the central location would have avoided heavy transportation costs for the great bulk of the students. "One of the trustees is still firmly convinced that the Totmie area is the logical location," he said.

F. P. Beckett protested that the trustees had omitted to fully acquaint the taxpayers with the proposals and criticized the costs as being tentative and subject to increase. School population in Saanich had decreased in recent years.

Trustee Tomes said the delay in public discussion had been due to a desire to have a complete scheme. The building costs submitted had been larger appropriations. He believed that a bond issue would cost the taxpayers $2.50 for each dollar realized by debentures, basing this on past experience with debenture issues.

Reeve Crouch protested that a maximum cost for a fifteen-year debenture issue would be $1.59 for each $1 received.

"The heavy taxpayer would prefer to pay another mill or two for a couple of years and build from revenue. Alternatively, if there is to be a bond issue, land should have a reduction in taxes," countered Councillor Hagan.

Mr. Beckett was informed by Trustee Tomes that no site has yet been selected for the high school. The selection rested with the School Board, and if the site chosen was not favored by voters, he hoped the point would not militate against the success of the by-law to be submitted in March. "If the measure fails, a serious situation will arise," he warned.

The discussion then terminated after the chairman had congratulated Reeve Crouch upon his re-election.

BUS DRIVERS MUST QUALIFY

Drivers Graded Into Three Classes Under New Legislation

Police Get Wider Powers on Suspension of Licenses

Moved by recent auto bus accidents in which school children were killed or injured in railway crossing tragedies, the government yesterday introduced legislation designed to allow only properly experienced and qualified persons to act as taxi and bus drivers.

Under the new laws, it was pointed out by Attorney-General R. H. Pooley, it will be impossible, for example, for youths experienced only in the driving of delivery wagons or private cars to take charge without examination of large passenger carriers.

The new amendments to the Motor Vehicle Act provide for the establishment of three types of chauffeurs' licenses. A Class A will permit the holder to operate every kind of motor vehicle, Class B will restrict the holder to operation of vehicles having a passenger capacity not exceeding seven, including the driver, while Class C will entitle the holder to drive cars used exclusively as trucks.

Employment of an unlicensed chauffeur is prohibited under the bill. Other provisions of the new bill tighten the obligations of drivers toward police officers. They are required to stop promptly when signalled, to give correct information as to name and address and to produce driving licenses for inspection.

Wider powers are also given the superintendent of police in regard to suspension of licenses. Instead of issuing duplicate licenses, magistrates are empowered to suspend licenses and forward them to the superintendent, who may then further suspend or cancel the license or revoke its suspension.

When the suspension is revoked or expires the superintendent shall issue to the licensee a duplicate license printed on blue paper where the suspended license was printed on white paper, or printed on yellow paper where the former license was printed on blue paper.

Chauffeurs' fees have been changed to embrace three classes at $7.50, $6.00 and $4.00, instead of $3 for all as at present.

Late W. F. Alloway Well Known Here

Regret is expressed in banking and hotel circles here over the death of William F. Alloway, pioneer banker of the city, who passed away Sunday at the Manitoba capital.

Mr. Alloway was well known in Victoria, having spent several summers here seeking to build up his health.

social committee, and a very enjoyable time was spent.

The officers for this year are: President, Don Fish; first vice-president and convener of social committee, Miss Molly Johnston; second vice-president and convener of literary committee, the Gordon Fields; third vice-president and convener of missionary committee, Miss Hazel McMahon; fourth vice-president and convener of devotional committee, Ralph Dent; secretary, Grant Paterson; treasurer, Miss Eva Parlee; convener of membership committee, Miss Dorothy Siddall.

LAND PRICES HAD BAD FALL

Settlers in Saanich See Life Savings Imperilled

Land around Goward for which $125 per acre was refused six years ago is selling to-day at $30 per acre, F. F. Beckett yesterday evening assured a well-attended meeting of the Saanich Board of Trade held at the West Saanich Institute Hall, when appealing for support for a resolution addressed to the council to improve the Interurban right-of-way from Burnside to Goward. Numbers of settlers invested their lifetime savings in the district when the electric line was in operation and cannot sell out their properties for lack of access, he said.

Reeve Crouch saw no possibility of the work being done this year, as the cost would be about $29,000 for a gravel road, exclusive of obtaining a right-of-way through the property of the B.C. Cement Co. Limited. Cost figures had been prepared for a comprehensive road building by-law of $300,000 to benefit all sections of Saanich, but the matter had been shelved pending settlement of the high school problem. If the right-of-way was improved from revenue in annual portions, several years would be required.

W. O. Wallace said 1,700 acres of good land could be opened up if the work were undertaken. He pointed to similar conditions at McHugh Valley, where many settlers were without road facilities and much land was inaccessible to settlement. Councillor L. Hagan said he was sympathetic, but the matter "was one of cutting our coat according to our cloth. He pointed out that claims by many other districts were equally urgent.

British-Russian Position Explained

London, Feb. 4.—Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, in a statement in the House of Commons yesterday regarding Soviet Russia and communist propaganda, said he had made it quite clear the Government was "not to be rushed into any hasty judgment" on these matters. "Should causes of serious complaint arise the government would not hesitate to take the House into its confidence, but the government must in the first instance be the judge as to the action that might be expedient or necessary to safeguard the country's interests."

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, cures children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont. It will be sent FREE. In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 80 years. (Adv.)

firmly convinced that the Totmie area is the logical location," he said.

F. P. Beckett protested that the trustees had omitted to fully acquaint the taxpayers with the proposals and criticized the costs as being tentative and subject to increase. School population in Saanich had decreased in recent years.

Trustee Tomes said the delay in public discussion had been due to a desire to have a complete scheme. The building costs submitted had been larger appropriations. He believed that a bond issue would cost the taxpayers $2.50 for each dollar realized by debentures, basing this on past experience with debenture issues.

Reeve Crouch protested that a maximum cost for a fifteen-year debenture issue would be $1.59 for each $1 received.

"The heavy taxpayer would prefer to pay another mill or two for a couple of years and build from revenue. Alternatively, if there is to be a bond issue, land should have a reduction in taxes," countered Councillor Hagan.

Mr. Beckett was informed by Trustee Tomes that no site has yet been selected for the high school. The selection rested with the School Board, and if the site chosen was not favored by voters, he hoped the point would not militate against the success of the by-law to be submitted in March. "If the measure fails, a serious situation will arise," he warned.

The discussion then terminated after the chairman had congratulated Reeve Crouch upon his re-election.

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR REPORT

Activities of First United Church Group Cover Wide Scope

The programme in charge of the Christian Fellowship committee of the First United Church Y.P.S., attracted eighty-five members yesterday evening.

John Taylor, the president, presided. The evening commenced with a singing, led by Ken Simpson, followed by the devotional period, in charge of Robert Wallace. He chose as his subject "The Architecture of Character," based on the Scripture reading found in second chapter of I Peter.

The reading of the Young People's annual report showed gratifying results for 1929. The splendid programmes, embracing the fourfold plan, proved very successful, it was reported. Talented speakers addressed several meetings; interesting debates were held; illustrated travelogue, musical and social evenings proved very entertaining, and the literary and missionary were of unusually high merit.

John Gough announced that a Valentine social, has been planned for next Monday night, and on the following Monday the third debate in the senior series will take place between teams representing the Axioms and Miss McFarlane's classes. The subject will be, "Be it resolved that Canada should have a distinct national flag."

A series of talks on "Know Your Own Church" will be a special feature of the February programme. The first of these was given by Fred McGregor, who outlined the financial side of church work.

The major part of the evening was given over to address centring around the theme, "World Fellowship," with Miss Nancy Stark presiding. The subject of "Disarmament" and the progress of the League of Nations was splendidly portrayed by Miss Isabel Alexander. Richard Holmes gave a concise talk on the vital subject, "Naval Disarmament."

Dr. Murray Anderson, who was to have addressed the meeting, was unavoidably absent through sickness, but his place was admirably filled by Rev. Bruce Gray, who gave an interesting address, showing the purpose of developing the Young People's Societies.

The young people of Oak Bay United Church, who were the guests of the society, were welcomed by Geo. Gordon.

During the evening musical selections were rendered by Miss M. Oliver, vocalist, and Gilbert Margison, violinist.

Line and the Japanese nation. In token of their pledges of faithfulness, they exchanged and drank cups of sake, rice wine, previously sanctified.

CELEBRATED BY NATION

The Japanese nation joined the Imperial family in celebrating this marriage, which unites the ruling line with probably the most illustrious subject house in the Empire. It joins a grandson of Emperor Meiji, to whom full reigning power was restored in 1889, to a granddaughter of the fourteenth and last of the Tokugawa Shoguns, whose renunciation of the actual rule carried on by his ancestors since 1603 marked the end of the feudal age in Japan and the beginning of modern history of the Empire.

After the ceremony at the palace Prince and Princess Takamatsu drove in a brilliantly caparisoned carriage, escorted by troops of the Imperial bodyguard and cavalry, to the mansion in the southern section of the capital which will be their home.

GREETED BY CROWDS

Crowds lined the route in the soft winter sunshine of the cloudless morning.

The couple, still wearing their wedding robes, sat side by side, rather timidly acknowledging the homage of the crowds.

CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS

Hugh Gibson of the United States delegation took the view that light cruisers and destroyers should not be lumped together in one classification, as under the French proposal. "It is understood the Japanese and British agreed with this view."

The heads of the five delegations in their own conference decided the private conversations must continue.

London, Feb. 4. — French and British plans for limiting naval tonnage were put under a microscope at a two-hour session of the delegations to the Five-Power Naval Limitation Conference sitting as a committee of the whole at St. James's Palace this afternoon.

The heads of the delegations did not participate in the meeting, but held a session of their own in another part of the palace.

The delegates at the general session took up the proposals of the two nations paragraph by paragraph, a spokesman for each nation contributing to the discussion. Examination of the proposals will be continued at a later date.

ALEXANDER IN CHAIR

With Right Hon. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the British Admiralty, in the chair, the conference took the French proposal as a basis for discussion. Mr. Alexander then submitted the British counter-proposal. It was understood the discussion which followed was only on the broadest terms and largely of an explanatory nature.

René Massigli, speaking for the French, laid emphasis on the publicity feature of the French scheme—that is, the obligation to give notice of transfer from one category of warships to another, one year before construction.

VIEWS OF U.S.

Hugh L. Gibson, voicing the United States viewpoint, suggested light cruisers and destroyers should not be lumped together as they would be under the French plan.

The Italian delegate, Admiral Siriani, stated his country's position, favoring the general global system of limiting tonnage as contrasted with limitation by categories, which is favored by Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

After the meeting of the heads of the delegations in another section of the palace, an official communiqué was issued which said good results in preparing the way for agreement were being obtained from private conversations among the delegations. It was said these private conversations would continue.

TO CARRY CONTRACTS

Improvement of trading methods would be the aim and object of the conference said Mr. Price. He believed the conference would do much toward making uniform changes to cover the whole of Canada.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 4.—Permission to carry out all existing contracts of Stobie, Forlong, Matthews Limited, brokerage firm, was granted to the liquidator, W. S. Newton, late last night. Mr. Justice A. E. Dymally, who signed the order for voluntary liquidation of the company last week under the Dominion Winding-Up Act, also signed the permission order.

The liquidator will now be allowed to make and take delivery of stock already contracted for purchase or sale, to complete existing deals for clearance, and to release stocks and securities to clients whenever he considers advisable. Permission is also given the liquidator to take orders and trade on a cash basis, but not otherwise to enter into any new contracts.

REMANDED GIVEN

Toronto, Jan. 4.—William J. Smart, president of Homer L. Gibson Company, Toronto stock brokerage house with branches in many parts of the province, was remanded till March 6, when he appeared before Magistrate Jones to-day to answer charges brought under the Security Frauds Prevention Act. Bail of $100,000 was renewed.

Wilbur H. Funk, accountant for the firm, who is being held as a material witness, was also remanded until March 6.

Smart was arrested the second time last Thursday when police raided five of this city's leading brokerage houses.

HOUSE SHOULD DECIDE

Mr. Manson protested he had never seen such procedure. The course the Speaker had pursued was in contempt of the orders of the House, he declared.

As the Speaker interjected to repeat his ruling Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, sought to speak on the subject, but was drowned with cries of "order."

"Order up two while you are at it," remarked Mr. Uphill as he took his seat.

Mr. Pattullo asked the Prime Minister if he were going to distribute the bill, and the Premier replied it was in the hands of the Speaker, and he had given his ruling.

A division was demanded on the Speaker's ruling, and he was sustained by twenty-eight to twelve, W. R. Rutledge, Conservative, Burnaby, voting with the Liberal forces and Mr. Uphill with the Conservative members.

Mr. Manson in face of considerable interruption then moved, seconded by Capt. Ian Mackenzie, that the House adjourn for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance. He quoted authorities and had the necessary nine members rise to show they were with him in his demand.

POOLEY JOINS IN

Mr. Pooley protested it was for the Speaker to decide and also endeavored to block Mr. Manson from stating his motion, claiming it must be in writing. When it was in writing he again protested against Mr. Manson reading it. Mr. Manson was speaking to the gallery, the Attorney-General protested. There was too much speaking to the press from the floor of the House and it should be stopped.

"Let us not make ourselves ridiculous and look like children," Mr. Manson chided the Attorney-General. Mr. Manson proceeded the rights of the House had been grossly violated.

Mr. Speaker ruled that it was not a matter of urgent public importance. "It is not the right of this House a matter of urgent public importance," Mr. Pooley wanted to know. "That right has been grossly violated."

Mr. Manson proceeded to protest the ruling of the Speaker, with Mr. Pooley insisting that he must accept the ruling and take his seat. Mr. Manson claimed the right to appeal the ruling and called for a division. After the division bell had rung Mr. Pooley again stuck horns with Mr. Manson, calling attention to the fact that he had left the House and claiming he had disqualified himself to vote.

"You are talking like an infant," Mr. Manson retorted. "I went out and came in when the division bell was rung. That is what the division bell is for."

Mr. Manson was allowed to vote.

On the division the Speaker was sustained by twenty-nine to twelve. Mr. Uphill joined the Liberal objectors on this occasion. Mr. Rutledge stood up with the Conservatives.

With the Liberals still fighting, Capt. Mackenzie tackled the subject with a question of privilege seeking the right to discuss the rights and privileges of members of the House. This was legislation affecting thousands in the Province, he said.

HOLDS THE FLOOR

The Speaker ruled him out of order and while he was appealing against the ruling his remarks were drowned by an unrestrained chorus of interruption from the opposite side of the House.

"I would ask," said Mr. Pattullo, "that the Prime Minister exercise his authority to see that his large majority pays some respects to the rights of the opposition."

Premier Toimie called for respect for the chair and said in all his experience, beginning with Ottawa in 1917 he had always found respect for the chair was insisted upon.

As though the incident were closed Premier Toimie later stood up to proceed with the next order of business. Capt. Mackenzie rose at the same time in protest and ignored cries of "Sit down." Mr. Pooley came to Dr. Toimie's support, but both the Premier and Mr. Pooley sat down and left the floor to Capt. Mackenzie, who said he was appealing the Speaker's ruling.

Mr. Pooley protested there could not be three rulings, but another division was taken. The Speaker was sustained thirty to eleven.

CUT OF HALF MILL GAINED BY COUNCIL

discharge of city obligations from revenue for the year.

The majority report of the special committee was presented by Alderman E. S. Woodward, Alderman William Cullin, and D. A. Macdonald, city controller. Alderman J. A. Worthington, also a member of the committee, did not sign the report, explaining his action by stating he was at variance with the appreciation of estimated receipts.

The changes made in the estimated receipts were conservative, stated Mr. Macdonald, who said he agreed with the report of the committee in that regard. The city had collected an actual ninety-one per cent of its levy last year. This year, with a lower mill rate, new building freshly taxable, and a growing city, it was not out of the way to anticipate a collection of 90.25, after discounting the probable effect of the recent stock market and wheat crop fluctuations in the economic system of the country.

The report of the special committee was adopted, and the rate will be fixed at 40.50 mills. Aldermen Dewar, Feden, Cullin, Lafield, Adam and Woodward voted in the favor.

Mayor Anson, Aldermen Worthington, Smith and Mara would have accepted a compromise whereby $4,000 of the difference between estimated expenditures and estimated receipts would have been taken from further cuts in the former. The motion to prepare the rate by-law at 40.50, however, was passed unanimously.

CUTS AUTHORIZED

The committee's report will make the following changes in the budget: Labor and material in the maintenance of boulevards will be cut to $35,000, saving $250; resurfacing of wooden-block streets is cut to $10,000, saving $5,000; $4,750 will be spent on surface drains at Pemberton Meadows, saving $250; a proposed vote of $1,000 for July 1 was eliminated.

The additions to the receipts included an estimated collection of 90.25 per cent, or three-quarters of one per cent less than was actually collected last year, adding approximately $2,000 to the anticipated receipts; $500 was added on account of local improvement refunding issues; $500 to the sum expected from part mutual receipts; $3,000 to anticipated collections from areas of taxes, and $2,000 to the sum expected from motor licenses. If each case the addition to receipts remained within reasonable and conservative expectations, it was stated by Alderman E. S. Woodward.

With the budget settled, save for the formal details of passing the rate and expenditure by-law, the council passed on to an agenda of routine business. Mayor Anson congratulated the council and other city boards on making an early settlement of the issue. At 40.50 mills the council has reduced the rate of levy by one-half mill from last year, when forty-one mills was the rate levied.

FISHERMEN FIGHT NEW PROPOSALS

"It has been the policy of the present Government of British Columbia to assist co-operative movements by producers," says the fishermen's statement.

"Fishermen cannot understand the change in policy that would bring to defeat and co-operative movement by fishermen and before legislation to this effect is finally adopted, feel it should be given mature consideration."

WOULD DESTROY GAINS

Regulation which would allow canneries to receive fish only from a limited amount of gear would destroy, it is declared, all of the independence won by these fishermen who have saved enough money to permit them to own their own boats and gear.

"Any arrangement whereby fishermen are put on a quota and rationed out to canneries inaugurates a condition of slavery that would not be tolerated in any civilized country, and fishermen do not believe it will be tolerated in British Columbia," the letter declares.

SIGNED BY FOUR

Signatories of the letter are Bruce Kaario, president of the B.C. Fishermen's Central Committee and the B.C. Fishermen's Co-operative Association; Ken Richardson, secretary of the B.C. Fishermen's Central Committee; E. Marshall, president of the B.C. Fishermen's Protective Association, and W. Oram, organizer of the B.C. Fishermen's Co-operative Association.

An Important Announcement concerning Rogers and Majestic Radios

MANUFACTURING and distribution of the two radio lines—Rogers Batteryless Radio and Majestic Electric Radio—for the Dominion of Canada—are under the control of the Rogers-Majestic Corporation Limited, of Toronto.

They have been handled as two separate and distinct products, under their individual trade names.

Under an arrangement just completed by the Rogers-Majestic Corporation Limited of Toronto, and the Grigsby-Grunow Company, manufacturers of the Majestic in the United States, the two lines—the Rogers and the Majestic—will be supplied to the Canadian public hereafter under a unified name "Rogers-Majestic".

"Rogers" and "Majestic" have been so closely linked that adoption of the new name—"Rogers-Majestic"—is a very natural development.

The Rogers Batteryless Radio Sets with Guaranteed Tubes have won an annually increasing popularity in the Canadian Radio field during the past five years.

The Majestic, as the whole world knows, is one of the modern wonders of the age and has a record of growth and success that is outstanding in the history of Commerce.

The "Rogers-Majestic" will be a strictly Canadian product, available in Canada and produced in the factory of the Rogers-Majestic Corporation Limited at Toronto.

The "Rogers" and the "Majestic" are today the largest-selling radios in Canada. Their co-ordination into a single make—"Rogers-Majestic"—will give the radio-buying public of Canada many added advantages, notably in production, in marketing, in service and in the benefits of combined research laboratory work of these two great organizations.

It is our hope that the Canadian public will continue to support the "Rogers-Majestic" as loyally and wholeheartedly as it has the "Rogers" and the "Majestic" in the past.

WHAT ABOUT MRS. MACGILL?

IN HIS DEFENCE OF THE CHARGE OF his government's partisanship in the provincial service which Mr. Pattullo leveled at him last Thursday, Premier Talmie said on the following day that it was necessary to make changes; but "we claim that any change that has been made has been made fairly, and we are prepared to take any one case and go into the merits of it."

Dr. Talmie has not yet justified his government's action in dismissing Mrs. J. H. MacGill from her position of Judge of the Juvenile Court for Girls in Vancouver. His explanation to a delegation last October was wholly inadequate and so considered by various women's organizations in Vancouver and by the women of the province as a whole. He said at that time: "By virtue of the amalgamation which took place between Vancouver proper and certain neighboring municipalities, the jurisdiction of police magistrates in those territories automatically ceased."

The government reappointed all the magistrates involved save Mrs. MacGill, who was told, a month after the amalgamation came into effect, that her services would no longer be required. Nor did the government lose any time in appointing her successor—Miss Edith L. Patterson, a prominent Conservative worker in Vancouver and a defeated Conservative candidate in the general election of 1924, ostensibly on the ground that she had had legal training and experience.

The delegation which waited upon the Premier and his colleagues was led by one prominent in women's Conservative circles in Vancouver and most of those supporting her arguments were of the same political faith. It thus will be seen that politics in no wise was a factor in the protest. But a place had to be found for a supporter of the government, and nothing the women of the province said moved the administration in the least.

Before the election, and soon after he had been called upon to form a government, Dr. Talmie declared that not a single person in the employ of the province would be disturbed as long as he or she gave one dollar's worth of service for the dollar received in payment. In view of that plain promise, the women of Vancouver naturally wanted to know why Mrs. MacGill was dismissed and succeeded by a prominent party worker without experience in the duties to which she was assigned.

If the Premier meant what he said when he assured the House he was ready to "take any one case and go into the merits of it," the case of Mrs. MacGill would give him an opportunity to try to prove how far wrong Mr. Pattullo was when he charged the government with partisanship. No complaint of incompetency, of course, ever was made against Mrs. MacGill, but ample testimony to the efficient manner in which she always discharged her duties still is available.

GETTING DOWN TO FACTS

TAKING THE BEAVERBROOK PRO-posals as his text and expressing himself as wholly in favor of developing inter-empire trade, a Canadian businessman recently dealt with Canada's purchases of steel products, showing the relationship of Canada's use of this material and the difficulty Great Britain faces in her competition with our neighbors on the south. He observes that we are a limited number of people, spread over a great area. We have an insufficiently concentrated body of consumers to warrant establishing rolling mills and other facilities which can profitably produce the various dimensions required in certain types of these products; he refers in particular to structural steel, which now enters so largely into the construction of the higher buildings in our cities. The heavy tonnage of this steel used in the Dominion is rolled in the United States. The Canadian rolling mills at present are producing only steel of smaller sizes and dimensions. In his opinion, there is not a sufficient tonnage for each size required in the erection of these high buildings to warrant establishing mills capable of rolling each size, or, even if the mills were established, to make it economical to change the rolls as frequently as would be necessary in producing the small tonnage. Therefore, it is natural to look elsewhere else for the major portion of the steel required.

Why, he asks, do we go to the United States? He answers the question by saying engineers in Canada look for engineering advice and for the latest engineering practice in the erection of these buildings. Overnight they can visit Pittsburgh, or Chicago, or Bethlehem; or they can meet a group of engineers associated with one or more of the steel plants with offices in New York; or engineers and construction officers associated with some of the large American corporations will come to Toronto, or to Montreal, or Winnipeg, or other important centres, to confer as to detail in working out engineering plans for consideration, and the section of steel which will be used. Distance rules out Great Britain for these conferences. Can the distance, he inquires again, be overcome by the British manufacturers establishing central engineering offices here?

Again, delivery is all-important—not only delivery of the initial order for steel, but the emergency requirements arising out of some unexpected condition. The United States steel plants, in point of delivery, are forty-eight, seventy-two, ninety-six hours distant from our important cities; Great Britain fifteen to twenty days distant. From the point of view of Britain's effort to capture more Canadian orders, he very properly points out that Canada is an expensive country to visit, and concludes:

It is a long way from Halifax to Victoria, and there are great stretches of the country in which there is little business to reward the visiting corporation which seeks to establish trade connections; hence, in the majority of cases, English shippers will be represented by a manufacturer's agency. It is probable that in a good many cases it will not suit him to produce the particular type of thing the Canadian requires. The volume is not sufficiently large nor is it easy for him to adapt himself to our need because he does not know the need.

The arguments to which we have referred may be considered conclusive in the abstract. But it should be remembered that British industrialists have overcome many obstacles to the expansion of their business in the past. When they have been considered out of the race they often have surprised the industrial world. They may do it again in the matter of supplying the Canadian market with steel products.

HE GOT HIS DESSERTS

FOR ATTACKING AND ROBBING A woman in Stanley Park, a Vancouver taxi driver was sentenced the other day by Magistrate Shaw to three years in the penitentiary and a whipping of ten lashes. "Your honor—the wife and children—how will they get on?" gasped the prisoner when he heard the sentence. "That is something you should have thought of," promptly answered the magistrate. It was stated in court that the taxi driver called for the woman at a beer parlor and instead of taking her home as directed, drove her to Lumberman's Arch, where she was brutally beaten, robbed of thirty-five dollars and a ring, and thrown into the roadway. Passing motorists picked her up and took her to the general hospital.

Robbery with violence, especially where the victim is a woman, deserves the sort of punishment imposed by Magistrate Shaw. It is hard upon the culprit's wife and children; but His Honor gave him the only possible answer in reply to his expression of concern about them. Our laws are for the protection of society. Until a better system shall be evolved, there are bound to be cases of the innocent suffering through the actions of others.

THE GHOST WALKS AGAIN

IT WOULD BE INTERESTING TO KNOW what passed through the minds of some of the government's supporters as they listened to Premier Talmie defending the export of logs when he closed the debate on the Speech from the Throne last Friday afternoon. How some of them berated Mr. Pattullo when he was Minister of Lands for permitting these logs, for which there was no demand in British Columbia, to leave the province! It was useless for the minister of that day to tell them that if the logs were not shipped out they would only be food for teredos. He was told he was merely the tool of foreign manufacturers who were ruining our industries, that he was unpatriotic, and that with a change of government such wickedness would end.

When the present government assumed office not a word was heard about the export of logs at its first session. The Minister of Public Works, himself a successful lumberman, had given his colleagues the advice that Mr. Pattullo's policy had been quite proper and should not be changed. The Premier last year admitted this. Hence, the logs are still being exported because, as Dr. Talmie said on Friday, this was better than letting them rot in the water. When Mr. Pattullo asked the Premier if he were endorsing the policy he (Mr. Pattullo) pursued, Dr. Talmie said: "If your policy was the same as the one I am advocating, it was the only one to follow under these conditions." It is the same policy—as the Premier knows well. The last rites, of course, have been performed over this subject several times, and we presume Dr. Talmie hopes he will hear no more of it. But what are Mr. Hinchliffe and Mr. Davie going to say about it?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TOLERABLE WINTER
The Florida Times-Union

There are a few things we miss here in Florida that are enjoyed up north, such as making snowmen, sledging and skating on the ice, but when we step out in our back yards in the middle of winter and pick delicious oranges off the trees and vegetables from our gardens, we figure that we are not so bad off after all.

THOSE TIN HATS
The Border Cities Star

Alfred Bates, inventor of the wartime "tin hat," is dead in England. "The helmets probably saved millions of lives," says Mr. Bates' obituary. "and came to be regarded with affection by many who still keep them in their homes, converted to various uses." And may we never have to beat out flower pots, ashtrays and cuspidors back into tin hats!

ACT OF FAITH
The London Advertiser

General Smuts says the South African settlement was the result of a great act of faith by the British Government. It was the government of Campbell-Bannerman, guided by the Liberal principles, and it granted self-government to the Transvaal in the teeth of Tory opposition. If the Tories had prevailed, South Africa might have been lost to the Empire during the World War.

CRIMINALS AND MOTOR CARS
The Washington Post

Governor Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts desires to keep automobiles out of the hands of criminals. That would be a good thing if it could be accomplished. The importance of the automobile in crime can hardly be overestimated. Detection has become extremely difficult because of the speed with which a criminal can move from the scene of crime. The problem of gang murders is hopelessly complicated by the practice of taking the victim "for a ride." Machine gun attacks are only possible through use of the automobile. The modern criminal would be crippled if some practical way of keeping automobiles out of his reach can be found. But at present there seems to be no more hope for making the gangster a pedestrian than there is for disarming him.

Across the Bay

Mr. Manson returns to the House—and the House is not the same after his return—for the thunder of great events rocks the Legislative chamber—Mr. Speaker survives his ordeal—the Premier is scandalized—and the forlorn hope is forlorn and hopeless.

By H. B. W.

MONDAY'S distinguished proceedings in the seventeenth Legislature of British Columbia reaffirmed several principles of which historians in the years to come must take note. It established the enduring vigor of our parliamentary institutions. It established the unquenchable fire of our race. And it established the fact that when a session starts thus anything may happen before it ends.

ORDINARILY we don't expect such important things to happen on Mondays. Mondays usually open late with us, so that the Vancouver members can come over on the afternoon boat, and end early, too, for no one wants to work on Mondays. Thus as Monday dragged on the House was lulled into a false sense of security. Of course it had heard that Mr. Manson was present for the first time, and was planning something or other. But there was Mr. Manson back in his old seat looking as if butter wouldn't melt in his mouth. There was Mr. Pattullo smiling cheerfully on the government, which smiled cheerfully back on him. And there was Mr. Pooley unloading an avalanche of new legislation without a murmur of protest from anywhere. Old heads thought it was too good to be true, and they were right.

OF A SUDDEN, as they say in the classics, the lightning struck. It struck once, twice, three times and the thunder rumbled even down to the bottom end of the back benches. Just why it struck and why it rumbled is a matter too deep for this column but it had something to do with an amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act, which Mr. Pearson, the able Liberal of Nanaimo, was trying to introduce and which Mr. Speaker Jones had ruled out of order.

WELL, TO THE aid of Mr. Pearson came Mr. Manson and he came not by chance. He came with all his battalion of eleven behind him, with a careful plan of campaign and with that gallant spirit which has led all the great forlorn hopes of history.

STRAIGHT AND headlong rushed Mr. Manson into the great stone wall of the government's majority. He said the Speaker, in ruling the Pearson bill out of order, had treated the House with contempt. And he continued to say it amid such a roar of protest as the Legislative chamber had not heard in years. Mr. Pooley tried to speak. Mr. Ian Mackenzie tried to speak and was heard to mutter through the din that something was absolutely outrageous. Mr. Pattullo tried to speak and managed, above the clamor to warn the Premier that it would be better if the government would treat the opposition more generously—a threat which did not pass unnoticed. Mr. Uphill tried to speak but never got beyond the first word, for by this time Mr. Speaker Jones had tried to speak and, by a miracle, had succeeded.

MR. SPEAKER'S first instruction was to Mr. Uphill, and it was brief. He instructed him to sit down. Then he called for order and Mr. Uphill, warmly supporting the request, added: "Yes, sir, order, and while you're ordering, order up two, one for me." At which there was no more order at all, until Mr. Manson appealed Mr. Speaker's ruling to the House, and the House supported the Speaker. Mr. Uphill, while favorable to the Pearson bill, saw in the issue a fine but obscure legal point which no one else saw and sided with the government.

IF THE government thought that this finished Mr. Manson it just didn't know its Mr. Manson. He was on his feet again in a second and again he hurled himself and his followers against the stone wall. He moved to adjourn the House to consider a grave matter of public business, an affront to the privileges of the House. Once more pandemonium broke loose and the Premier, who had never seen such things at Ottawa, looked as if he found it difficult to believe his eyes. What he saw, indeed, was hard to believe.

THERE WAS Mr. Manson with the book of rules in his left hand sweeping the atmosphere. There was Mr. Pooley standing opposite him and shouting that the House had had enough shouting for that day. There was Mr. Speaker trying to make out the motion which Mr. Manson had written on a piece of paper and vainly calling for order. There was Mr. Mackenzie, voicing sentiments which no one could hear. And there up in the gallery was an old man with a white beard who had almost swallowed his false teeth in the excitement and seemed to be slowly choking to death. But no one seemed to care.

MR. MANSON continued to move for an adjournment, and by one of those paradoxes which make polities so interesting, the more he moved for it, the further distant adjournment hour became. Mr. Jones ruled him out of order. Mr. Manson continued to speak. Mr. Pooley continued to speak. Mr. Uphill continued to help out by kindly suggestions from the back benches. And the deep-throated bay of the great Conservative majority drowned all other sound.

AGAIN MR. MANSON appealed to the House against Mr. Speaker's decision and hurried out to the library to get spare books of reference. When he came back again Mr. Pooley made the awful discovery that he could not vote because he had left the House during a division, a practice prohibited under a rule established by Mr. Manson himself when he was Speaker. Mr. Manson, instructing Mr. Pooley not to talk like an infant, voted anyway. This time Mr. Uphill discovered another fine and obscure legal point and voted with the opposition, but Mr. Rutledge, who had left the party fold before, came back and supported the government.

MR. MACKENZIE took up the fight here and conveyed the whole debate into a question of privilege which he proceeded to discuss with arms flying and it's rolling. Again the bay of the government majority, drowning the words which Mr. Mackenzie continued to shout. Again Mr. Speaker's cry for order. Again the choking of the old man in the gallery. It was gorgeous.

FINALLY MR. PATTULLO appealed to the Premier. He threw himself on the broad bosom of the Premier and said he expected better things from him. The Premier, thus appealed to, came to life with a jerk and threw Mr. Pattullo back again. The Premier was red in the face and seeing red, too. He said that in his brief experience in parliamentary practice since 1917 he had supposed that the first duty of a member was to obey the rules. And he thundered at Mr. Mackenzie that when a member was told to sit down he should sit down.

THUS SUPPORTED from on high, Mr. Speaker suggested that everything was now settled to the satisfaction of everyone and business could proceed. He was too optimistic. Mr. Mackenzie was not satisfied. He was not even finished talking and, though the Premier was on his feet to move adjournment, he appealed for the third time to the House against Mr. Speaker's ruling.

AGAIN THE division bells rang. Again Mr. Speaker watched the sands in his tiny hour glass mark the passage of the regulation three minutes. Again the vote was taken and again the forlorn hope was hurled back. By this time Mr. Uphill had discovered a third fine, obscure legal point and sided with the government. The majority supporting Mr. Speaker was thus swelled to thirty, against eleven.

THUS ENDED the day. Thus had the opposition recorded its opinion. Thus had Mr. Manson well and truly returned to the House. And thus, for all signs to the contrary, the poor old man in the gallery finally strangled on his false teeth in the sheer joy of watching these great events.

TARIFF AND CANADIAN INDUSTRY

To the Editor:—I would like to see reprinted in The Victoria Times the following editorial from The Manitoba Free Press, which sheds light on some tariff factors many persons do not understand:

HIGH COSTS KILL EXPORTS—"Australians are busy asking themselves why the H. V. McKay Proprietary, one of the biggest implement firms in the Commonwealth, should have decided to build its export plant in Canada instead of in Melbourne. This firm has perfected what is said to be one of the best small combines in the market. At one time it had a substantial export business. This business has dwindled sadly, as for instance in the case of the Argentine which bought $30,000 worth of goods in 1911 and only $12,000 in 1927-28."

The reason lies in the excessive cost of the raw materials used in the McKay plants. Australia has achieved the establishment of its own primary iron and steel industry. It has, however, done this to the ruin of its export trade, for only by means of excessive tariffs has it been possible to provide the necessary market. The Canadian general tariff on pig-iron is $2.50 a ton; in Australia it is $10. On bar iron our duty is $7.50; the Australian duty is $24. Similar conditions may be made all down the line.

PARTY DELUSIONS

To the Editor:—I have already written about a serious split in the ranks of the Provincial Conservative Party. It is bad enough when our leaders deliberately shut their eyes to the self-evident fact of the great cleavage of opinion prevalent in many parts of our great Province, but when they attempt to delude the public by the cry that all is well within the party and that the Conservative machine is running, or is about to run smoothly and satisfactorily, is altogether too much for the observant public to swallow and assimilate.

I have already stated that many Conservatives cannot be intimidated and will not submit to coercion. I also understand that they cannot prevent being discriminated against, but I wish to emphasize the fact that the malcontents, so called, may use the same weapon when the proper time comes.

I firmly believe that had an earnest attempt at conciliation been made at the outset of this serious trouble that a satisfactory settlement could have been arranged.

Many believe that it is now too late for any such compromise. To make our contention clear and understandable, I may say that we were forced by the trend of events within the party to realize that by individual effort we could accomplish little or nothing, therefore we combined, framed a constitution in which we pledged ourselves to loyally support and assist the best interests of the Conservative Party and promote the solidarity of the British Empire.

We defy any combination to force us out of our party.

We are resolved to attempt to remedy matters that we know to be wrong within the party, from the inside. We believe it can be accomplished, and in the best interests of our Province it must be done.

Not the slightest desire to form an independent party exists.

We have only one political desire, that is to see and realize that our party reap what its loyal supporters and workers have sown and garnished, a long, brilliant and successful term of office that may benefit every resident of British Columbia, and eventually make her what she is entitled to be, the undoubted premier province of our loved Canada.

DR. YOUNG'S LETTER

To the Editor:—On January 28 you published a letter from Dr. Young, provincial health officer, regarding the scarlet fever serum and certain correspondence relating thereto.

I had reported to Dr. Young and others, the information that Dr. Kegel, Health Department, Chicago, had given a speech on the radio on Thursday, December 12, in which he is alleged to have stated that the Chicago Health Department could not assume the responsibility of advising parents to have their children immunized with the "unhappy experiences" of parents who had exposed their children to the serum.

Dr. Young wired to Dr. Kegel for information and received from his department a letter—the same letter, it

The letter Dr. Young received reads in part:

"In reply to your letter concerning radio speech over station KYW, on Thursday afternoon, December 12, regarding immunization against scarlet fever, may I state that in reviewing the facts presented you have grossly misrepresented and misinterpreted in favor of your own views the information given."

It may be noted that Dr. Kegel's letter, from which I quote, does not deny that such statements were made. It only says that they have been misrepresented and misinterpreted in

OUTLINE OF BUS SERVICE ASKED BY COUNCILLORS

Esquimalt Council Asks A. T. Goward to Attend Meeting Soon

By-laws Introduced at Meeting; Library Service to Continue Same

Consideration of a bus service in Esquimalt, passage of the first two readings of the annual loan and the tax sales and sales by-laws and decision to continue the municipality's library service under the same agreement as last year, featured the meeting of the Esquimalt Council yesterday evening.

After considerable discussion regarding the use of buses in Esquimalt, the council decided to ask A. T. Goward, vice-president of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, to attend a meeting and place the proposition before the council.

It was noted by Councillor Lockley that several questions would have to be taken into consideration before a definite move could be made.

"Does the public of Esquimalt want a bus service," he queried. "And are you sure if it got one the service would be better than a street car service?"

In view of the fact that the council could do nothing until it received further word from the B.C. Electric Railway Company, the members decided to ask Mr. Goward to attend one of the meetings and place the situation before them.

Another communication from Chilliwack, seeking Esquimalt's support to a move to make a councillor's term only one year, was turned down.

A reply to the council's invitation to the Canadian National Railway Company to make its steamship headquarters here, stated that the organization would be unable to do so since its business offices were already situated in Vancouver.

The auditor's report showed the finances of the municipality to be in good order. It was approved and set aside for publication.

HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT
Dr. J. S. McCallum, medical health officer for Esquimalt, submitted his report at the meeting. It showed that a considerable saving had been effected in municipal revenue by quarantining families in which contagious diseases had occurred instead of sending the patients to the Isolation Hospital.

Amputation had been carried out on eight premises, while fifteen patients regarding sanitation had been investigated and adjusted.

Solution of the difficulty of maintaining a pure milk supply was being found by dairymen, who were moving away from the densely populated areas of the municipality.

A regular inspection of schools had been carried out, the report concluded.

GOVERNMENT TO ADD TO ITS PROPERTY

Asks City to Close Lane Dividing Site Near Parliament Buildings

City Extends No. 1 Fire Limits South of Belleville Street

The consolidation of the Provincial Government's property on the east side of Government Street, between Elliott and Superior Streets, across the street from the Parliament Buildings, by the closing of a lane midway between lots in that area, leading westward from Douglas Street, is pending following a communication between the Provincial Government and the City Council yesterday evening.

The request came from P. Philip, Deputy Minister of Public Works, who asked that the council prepare a by-law closing the lane. The transfer of the road allowance, for a distance of 100 feet to a depth varying from twenty to thirty feet, to the government would follow, it was stated. The council took the necessary action to have the by-law prepared.

The lane lies between lots 20 and 21, and 11 and 12, in section 6, being portion of a subdivision of part of Lot 1 in that section. The surrounding property was purchased by the Provincial Government in the spring of last year, when it paid $120,000 for property on Government and Superior Streets. The closing of the lane will have the effect of consolidating the government holdings from Elliott to Superior Street to a considerable depth from Government Street on the east side.

On its own behalf, the council ratified the sale of two city lots. A lot at the southeast intersection of Jones and Topas was sold for $470 cash; and one on South Collinson Street for $400 on terms.

The B.C. Lands Investment Agency Limited made application for permission to install runways across the sidewalk at two points in the city. One was for three outlets in the block bounded by Port, Vancouver and Meares Streets; and the other for two outlets at the northwest corner of Cook and Yates Streets.

The council ratified a committee decision to extend the No. 1 fire limits southward along Government Street to a depth of 100 feet south of Superior Street; and along Belleville Street to a depth of 100 feet from the property line in the C.N.R. block, between Government and Douglas Streets. This will ensure first-class fireproof construction for any buildings erected in the area.

Two special concerts at the Empress Hotel this season. March 23, April 17.

WOMEN PROMINENT IN LONDON NAVAL PARLEY SOCIAL FUNCTIONS

of the Arkansas senator; Mrs. Charles D. Dawes, wife of the United States Ambassador to Great Britain, who is keeping "open house" for delegates' wives and is to be hostess at a formal party at the embassy; and Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the British Premier, who is "official hostess" to the wives of all foreign delegates. Below, left to right, are Lady Astor, Member of British Parliament, who also is to entertain women at the peace parley; Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the United States Secretary of the Navy; and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

about the head, spanking in itself would have no effect on the mind, but rather on the child's spirit. It does happen that children, "not quite bright," are difficult to manage and parents who lack understanding of their limitations beat them instead of trying to devise more progressive methods of helping them. Their dullness isn't the result of the spankings, but rather the reason why they are spanked.

We have a new leaflet, "An Analysis of Obedience and Punishment," which endeavors to clear up this puzzling

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

SPANKING WON'T HELP MATTERS WHEN SCHEDULE NEEDS READJUSTMENT

Those of us who have turned the question of obedience and punishment over and over, so as to view it from every possible angle, know that we begin to progress as soon as we discard whipping or slapping as a means of enforcing obedience. Feeling that spanking is valueless as a means of controlling children, we devise other ways to teach children that they must heed good and wise rules made by persons in authority over them. With the small child there are so many things which arise in the day that unless the mother thinks clearly on this subject, she resorts to whipping simply because she knows nothing else to do. The following is a case in which it is clear that spanking in no way helps the situation and yet the mother has continued to use it. One cannot guess for what reason. Probably none, except that she felt she ought to do something. This mother says: "Mrs. Eldred, I know you do not believe in spanking but how else would you treat the two-year-old who refuses to take his nap? I talk to him and then I end up by a good spanking. It hurts me more than him, and then the same thing happens again. Is it true that spanking affects a child's mind?"

In this case the mother refuses to recognize that we cannot force a child to stay in any one stage of development. This child has grown out of the necessity for an afternoon nap, as some children do as early as eighteen months. He cannot sleep. He isn't sleepy. No amount of spanking can force him to sleep under those circumstances. Now, isn't it silly and foolish to use it?

Instead, rearrange his day so as to take into account his greater wakefulness. Try several short rest periods during the day, so that the child never becomes over-fatigued. Let him lie down with shoes off and listen to some pleasant music or play with some toy quietly about 11 a.m. After his lunch, when he is in a mood for quiet, put him in his bed, leave the blinds up, give him a toy, keep your eye on him and let him stay there quietly for a half to one hour, as long as he is happy.

Why consider this perfectly natural development a conscious effort of the child's to be naughty, an act demanding punishment? It isn't at all. Unless the child is brutally beaten

Yankees Not Interested In Ruth's Statement He Will Retire

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Will the Boston Bruins break all the records in the National Hockey League is the question being asked these days by hockey fans? At the rate this amazing club, which holds the world's championship and the Stanley Cup which goes with it is traveling, it looks like the Bostonians won't leave many of the old marks by the end of the season. The Bruins have already shattered two records, the one held by the Ottawa Senators for the number of games won, and the other in total goals scored, formerly held by the Canadiens of Montreal.

When the Bruins played to a 3-3 draw with the New York Rangers on Sunday night they brought their total number of goals scored this season up to 117 or one better than the former record established by the Canadiens two years ago. And the Bruins still have fourteen games to play. In thirty games so far Boston have averaged close to four goals a game, and if they carry on at the same pace for the remainder of the season they will score approximately 150 times, not only smashing the present mark by a big margin, but averaging far better than any club has since the National League advanced from the four-club class in 1924.

Boston can also do as much in the matter of games won and lost. Ottawa's great Senators who won the titles in 1925-26 and 1926-27, have the best previous marks with twenty-four victories and four ties in the thirty-six game schedule of the first season and thirty victories and four ties in forty-four contests for the second. On a percentage basis, counting the draws as half games, Ottawa had marks of .722 and .727. This year Boston has traveled along at a clip of .857, which would carry them to the end of the season with thirty-eight victories and but six defeats.

On the other hand Pittsburgh may give the reverse display to Boston. The Pirates have but twelve points in twenty games played so far, consisting of five victories and two draws. They have had 118 goals scored against them. The worst records so far in this respect, both made by Chicago, were a seventeen-point total and 134 opponents' goals. At the rate Pittsburgh are going they will equal the first and beat the second. Unless they improve their average, 186 goals will be tallied against the Pirates. So far an average of 4.23 goals have gone past the Pittsburgh goalie, three-tenths of a goal worse than Boston's average for its first year in the league.

The only losing record the Pirates cannot equal is that of Chicago's failure to score last season when the Black Hawks scored but thirty-three goals in forty-four games.

Leslie Patrick and his New York Rangers, suffered a bad misfortune Sunday night when "Shining" Johnson, their star defense player, suffered a broken jaw in the game with Boston. Johnson, although one of the biggest players in the league, seems to carry a jinx. Early in the year he suffered a broken ankle and was lost to the Rangers for practically the entire season. This season the Rangers had to pay Johnson considerably more salary in order to get him to sign and now he is lost to them again through injuries.

Bill Carrigan, who turns over the management of the Boston Red Sox to Heinie Wagner this year, made a little speech after the banquet the other night, commending the changes of the game. "Everybody goes up and tries to bust that ball nowadays," said Bill. "The craze for home-run hitting has distorted values. Our old scheme was to get a lead of one run and hold on to it for dear life."

"In the old days we used to have a man sitting on the bench looking at the ball as fast as they were returned from the grandstand. In those days a dozen balls were the number ordinarily used in a game. We used to share off the pitchers and put them back into circulation. They didn't throw them out very often in those times."

"As soon as we got a lead and the game was five or six innings old we had the blackened balls all ready to shoot into the battle when the crowd went to bat. Needless to say the other fellows didn't break any batting records. But if we were behind, the Red Sox got all the balls to hit all but over the circuit. There are tricks in all trades."

"In those days four pitchers were all that the club used regularly. There were no tremendous batting feasts, either. But the sluggers, having his inning now, and the pitchers have to suffer. That's why, in a single game, you're apt to see as many pitchers working as used to be called to the slab in a whole week."

Emil St. Goddard Sets Fast Pace To Lead in Derby

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Emil St. Goddard, king of the mushers, leads the field after the first stage of the first national dog derby, which was started yesterday in connection with the Ottawa Winter Carnival, finishing the thirty-mile course, laid out over hard-packed highways in the sensational time of 2 hrs. 37 mins. The mushers from The Pas Manitoba gained an advantage of 9 mins. 45 secs. over Leonard Seppala, of Nome, Alaska, who finished second in 2 hrs. 46 mins. 23 secs. The elapsed times of the other drivers were:

George Chevrete, Quebec City, 2 hrs. 56 mins. 7 secs.
Walter Channing, Boston, Mass., 3 hrs. 1 min. 57 secs.
Harry Wheeler, St. Jovite, Que., 3 hrs. 8 mins. 8 secs.

Bambino Declares He Will Get His $85,000 Or Quit

Home Run King Issues Statement He Has Earned Enough to Live on for Rest of His Days; Yankee Owners Say They Have Nothing to Say and Do Not Intend to Raise the Ante; Ruth, If He Retires, Will Play Exhibitions and May Join Circus

Canadian Press

New York, Feb. 4.—Babe Ruth's latest gesture of defiance, in effect a threat to retire and live on an annual income of $25,000 unless the New York Yankees meet his demand for a new three-year contract at $85,000, caused no general excitement along the Forty-second Street baseball row in general or the Yankee Club offices in particular.

"We are not interested and we have nothing to say," declared E. G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, when advised that Ruth, either personally or through an agent, had broadcast a statement from Florida in support of his salary contentions.

N. Y. TEAMS WILL CLASH

Rangers and Americans Will Meet To-night For Fourth Time This Season

New York, Feb. 4.—There are four national Hockey League games to-night. New York's two teams, the Rangers and the Americans, engage in their fourth and probably last battle of the year. Fireworks are expected because of their game a week ago when the Rangers won a 4-3 overtime victory on an award goal. The game was protested by the Americans. The Rangers, fighting for second place in the American group and now tied with Chicago, have been weakened by the loss of their defense star, Ching Johnson who suffered a broken jaw in Sunday's clash with Boston.

At Montreal, Les Canadiens play the Toronto Maple Leafs. They are two of the four clubs engaged in the struggle for play-off positions in the Canadian league. Ottawa tackles a comparatively easy victim in the lowly Pittsburgh Pirates.

Boston's champion Bruins tackle the Detroit Cougars. Chicago and the Montreal Maroons are idle.

BRITISH WILL BOOST GAMES

Strong Committee Will Seek Support of British Empire Sports at Hamilton

Canadian Press

London, Feb. 4.—The active support of all interested in amateur sports in Britain will be enlisted for the British Empire Games to be held in Hamilton, Ontario, next August.

This was the decision of a largely attended meeting yesterday when representatives of many branches of British sport were present. Sir George McLaren, president, presided. It was resolved to establish a national committee of which Lord Desborough, veteran sportsman, will be invited to become president.

Lord Londsdale, the greatest sportsman in England, will be invited to become first vice-president and the support will be enlisted of Lord Aberdare, Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Byng, Lord Rochdale and Lord Tweedmouth, and many others.

BUCKY LAWLESS WINS

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 4.—Bucky Lawless, 147, Syracuse, won the decision over Young Jack Thompson, 146½, Los Angeles, in a hard-fought ten-round battle here yesterday evening.

FOXY PHANN Sometimes it takes a little knocking to drive home a point

Ruth has rejected the two-year contract at $75,000 a year offered by the Yankees, which sum it is understood, represents the limit the club will go. It is $5,000 a year more than the Babe has received for the last three years.

Barrow and Col. Jacob Ruppert, the club owner, not only feel that they have dealt generously with Ruth, but that they "should be examined" for risking that much money on the uncertainties of baseball. Ruth in particular.

The circumstances of the Babe's unexpected debut as a propagandist were somewhat mysterious. Sporting editors tearing open their morning mail were just about to toss some mimeographed stuff in the waste basket when they noticed the Ruthian label. It turned out to be a snappy 500-word piece, designed to buttress the Babe's claims to bigger and better wages.

THOUGHT IT HOAX At least one morning paper had the story on its desk, but did not print it because of suspicion as to the possibility of a hoax. In spite of the fact that of Palm Beach, where Ruth has been sojourning. Furthermore, the man who has mimeographed most of Ruth's statements, Christy Walsh, is now in California.

"If the Yankees reject my request for an increase," reads the Ruthian statement, "I will remain idle, which, at my age, means retirement from baseball. I mean organized baseball. A few years ago I would not have taken this attitude. I would be obliged to sign at any terms for the same reason ninety-five per cent of all players have to sign—bread and butter."

"Well, there's enough bread and butter in our home even if I never touched another baseball in my life. Without receiving five cents from the Yankees during 1930 I am assured an income of $25,000 from established dividends and royalties."

"I have saved exactly $150,000 in less than three years, which pays me an income every three months. In addition I received royalties from baseball, underwear, baseball gloves and equipment, radio talks and the like."

"Take the matter of exhibition games," the statement goes on. "The Yankees have played more in the last ten years than most other major league clubs combined, and every exhibition contract reads, 'If Ruth does not play, the game is cancelled.' And yet Ruth never gets a dime from exhibition games."

IN EXCELLENT CONDITION "To-day I am in fine physical shape. Golf, fishing and hunting have kept me in trim since last October. During the winter I rejected every money in my pocket and talking pictures to keep myself in shape, but if the Yankees force me into retirement I will accept some of the many offers which include a variety of entertainment propositions, exhibition matches during the summer and even an offer from a circus. But I prefer to stick with the Yankees at $85,000 per year on a three-year contract."

Jumbo kept his right hand at all times, but it was only seldom he let it go. The jabbing left landed with great frequency on Ketchell's face and the bout was not very old before the Tacoma fighter's face was as red as a tomato from the continual punching it received.

For his first ten-round bout, Jumbo handled himself very well, and, on his showing against an opponent with such a reputation, should be able to hold his own with any of the crack bantams on the Pacific Coast.

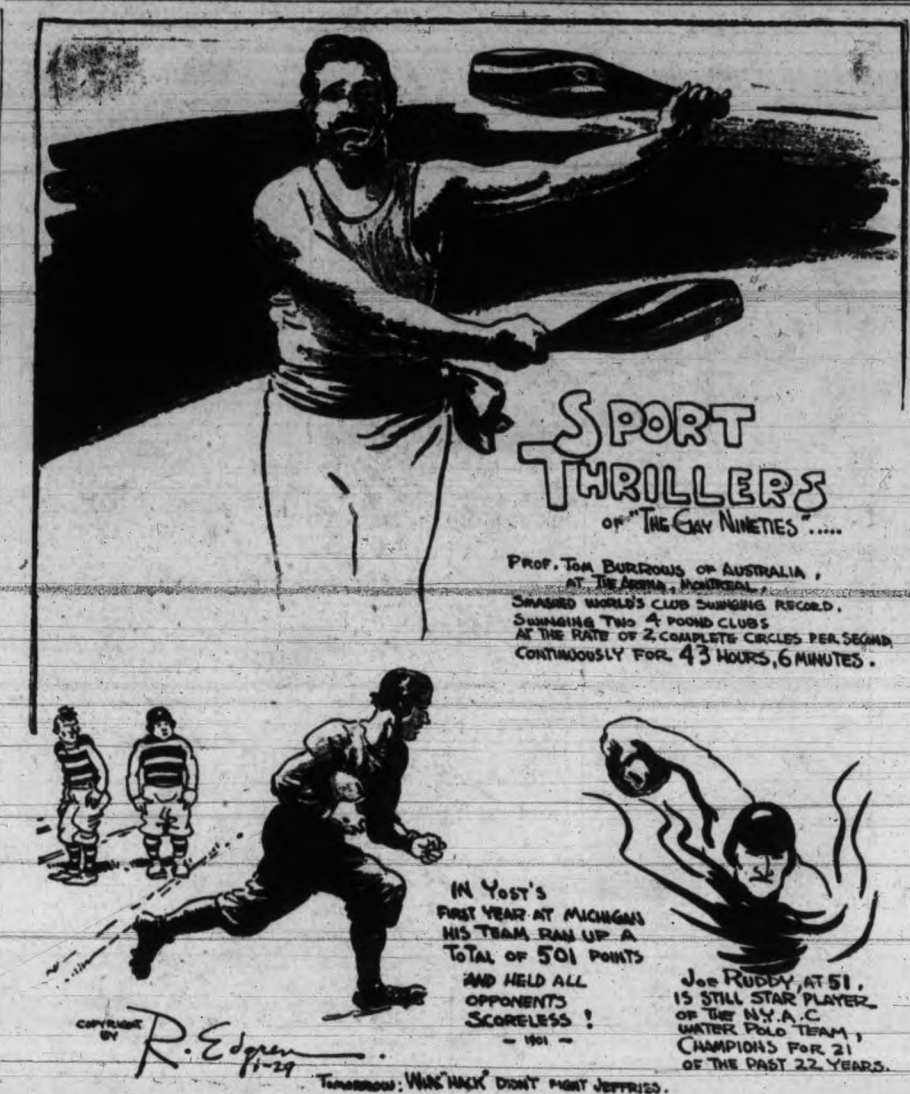

Ketchell proved a stockily-built fighter with a wicked left hand that shot out fast at the most opening.

He was fairly fast and his hand-hitting left more than once sunk into Jumbo's midriff. His blows packed plenty of steam behind them, and the local boy appeared hurt a few times, but was always able to come back strong.

DRAW WELL RECEIVED It was not until the last three rounds that the two fighters got in and mixed things, and during this period, the fans witnessed plenty of heavy milling. Ketchell showed up to the best advantage in the eighth when he connected with three or four wicked lefts and right hooks to Jumbo's face and body. However, in the ninth and tenth rounds Jumbo stood toe to toe with Ketchell and traded blow for blow.

At the final gong both fighters were visibly tired. The draw decision was well received by the fans. Albion Davies showed up well to receive the decision over George Ainsworth was not in condition, he made a very creditable showing. Davies used both his left and right hands to good advantage and in the fourth round it looked like he might score a knockout, but the Mainlander weathered the storm.

Jumbo Davies Left Jabs His Way To a Draw With Ketchell

Young Victoria Bantamweight Shows Up Well in First Ten-round Bout Against Crack Tacoma Fighter; Fighters Stage Real Slugging Bee in Last Three Rounds; Albion Davies Wins Call Over Ainsworth; Drysdale Awarded Unpopular Decision Over Duffy

Depending for the most part on a straight left jab that kept his opponent away and also scored many points, Jumbo Davies, Victoria's classy young bantamweight, gained a draw with Harry Ketchell, highly touted Tacoma fighter, in their ten-round bout staged as the main event on the card at the Crystal Garden yesterday evening. Davies, fighting a cool, heady fight, was never in any serious trouble with his dangerous opponent, and in the few heavy exchanges was more than able to hold his own. D. W. Davies, third man in the ring, in marking his scorecard called eight rounds even, while he awarded the fourth to Davies and the eighth to Ketchell. The bouts were witnessed by a fair crowd of enthusiastic fans.

Davies surprised the majority of the fans by depending on his left hand so much, as in his former bouts it has been his right hand that has carried him through to so many victories. Jumbo kept his right hand at all times, but it was only seldom he let it go. The jabbing left landed with great frequency on Ketchell's face and the bout was not very old before the Tacoma fighter's face was as red as a tomato from the continual punching it received.

For his first ten-round bout, Jumbo handled himself very well, and, on his showing against an opponent with such a reputation, should be able to hold his own with any of the crack bantams on the Pacific Coast.

Ketchell proved a stockily-built fighter with a wicked left hand that shot out fast at the most opening. He was fairly fast and his hand-hitting left more than once sunk into Jumbo's midriff. His blows packed plenty of steam behind them, and the local boy appeared hurt a few times, but was always able to come back strong.

DRAW WELL RECEIVED It was not until the last three rounds that the two fighters got in and mixed things, and during this period, the fans witnessed plenty of heavy milling. Ketchell showed up to the best advantage in the eighth when he connected with three or four wicked lefts and right hooks to Jumbo's face and body. However, in the ninth and tenth rounds Jumbo stood toe to toe with Ketchell and traded blow for blow.

At the final gong both fighters were visibly tired. The draw decision was well received by the fans. Albion Davies showed up well to receive the decision over George Ainsworth was not in condition, he made a very creditable showing. Davies used both his left and right hands to good advantage and in the fourth round it looked like he might score a knockout, but the Mainlander weathered the storm.

advantage, the bout being very slow to watch. DRYSDALE WINS On the offensive the greater part of the time, Tommy Drysdale was given the call over Johnny Duffy, although it appeared the latter was at least entitled to a draw. The decision was met with a chorus of boos from the audience.

In the curtain-raiser Jackie Barr, local youngster, earned a technical K.O. over Jack Morrow of Vancouver. Referee Davies stopping the fight at the end of the second round.

BOWLING

In the Commercial League tenpin fixture the Rogues managed to win out of the three games from The Colonist Wanderers. The Rogues captured the first game, but dropped the next two. W. R. Mitchell of the Wanderers carried off aggregate and individual scores with scores of 532 and 209.

MAY SETTLE CLUB STRIFE

Baseball Heads Eager to Decide Internal Dissension in Brooklyn Team

New York, Feb. 4.—National League club owners had a few chores to perform to-day before allowing the players to take over the baseball reins for 1930.

The league's spring meeting generally is devoted to adoption of the schedule for the coming season and advance indications were that there was little else to be done at the current get-together.

There was a possibility, however, that efforts would be made to settle once for all the internal dissension that has torn the Brooklyn club for several years. Suggestions were made that K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, might act as mediator in the long battle between Wilbert Robinson, president-manager of the club, and S. W. McKeever, a heavy stock holder.

Robinson's contract as manager has expired and strictly speaking the Dodgers are without any pilot to guide them from the bench. Robinson has the support of the Ebbetts heirs and so far has managed to defeat all of McKeever's efforts to oust him.

advantage, the bout being very slow to watch. DRYSDALE WINS On the offensive the greater part of the time, Tommy Drysdale was given the call over Johnny Duffy, although it appeared the latter was at least entitled to a draw. The decision was met with a chorus of boos from the audience.

"Rep" Team Named For Match Against Vancouver Saturday

Turgoose Replaces Horne on Three-quarter Line; Reg. Wenman Shifted Back to Old Position of Five-eighth; Webster Changed from Three-quarter to Fullback; Boys Look Strong for Game Against Vancouver All-stars at Brockton Point

With one exception the Victoria "rep" rugby team will take the field against Vancouver as announced last week. Instead of Jack Horne on the three-quarter line, Pete Turgoose of the same club, the Canadian Scottish, will go into action. Another switch has been made, but the players involved were both members of the first chosen squad. Reg. Wenman, fleet back-field man, who has been holding down the fullback position, will move up to his regular place at five-eighth, while Art Webster, one of the three-quarters who showed up so well both on the attack and defence against Varsity, will drop back into Wenman's place.

SEVEN-A-SIDE RUGBY RULES RELEASED

Knockout Tournament Will Start Here on March 15; Interest in New Code

Rules and regulations for the proposed seven-a-side rugby tournament, scheduled to be underway here on March 15, were submitted to the Victoria Rugby Union at its meeting yesterday evening by Capt. Coventry, president of the local and B.C. unions. After careful consideration on the different phases of the constitution, the regulations were adopted.

The constitution calls for a tournament here on Saturday, March 15, and Saturday, March 22, both dates being tentative and resting entirely on the playing schedules of the union at that time. The report suggests the naming of a committee to handle the tournament and recommends that a trophy be provided to be played for annually. Games on the former date will be played at the Willows, and those of the latter at the Royal Athletic Club, if it is obtainable at that time.

The tournament will be played under a knockout system, and will be open to any combination of players on Vancouver Island. Teams will consist of seven players and two reserves. The reserves will only be permitted to play on sanction of the tournament committee. No substitutions will be allowed during a game. The names of all teams entering (players and reserves), together with their colors must be forwarded to the secretary of the Victoria Rugby Union not later than 4 o'clock on Monday, March 10.

The report suggested that grants to help defray the traveling expenses of out-of-town teams be made by the union.

The rules governing play follow: Duration of the game to be ten minutes each way. In the event of the result being a tie at the end of the regular playing time, extra periods of seven minutes each way will be played until a result is obtained. The laws of the English Rugby Football Union will govern play, i.e. the New Zealand kicking into touch rule will not be played. The tournament committee shall settle all disputes and draw up regulations as required, appeals only being allowed to the Victoria Rugby Union.

Welker Cochran Is Leading Reiselt

New York, Feb. 4.—Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, took the first block of a special three cushion billiards match with Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, yesterday, and was leading yesterday evening, 100 to 99.

Cochran won by runs of 50 to 40 in fifty-one innings, and 60 to 29 in seven in each block. Reiselt had a cluster of six yesterday afternoon and seven yesterday morning.

McDUFFER OF THE MISSAPUTTA GOLF CLUB

"I'm glad to see that Ike Smith, our deaf-mute member, is recoverin' from his injuries. Ike missed a six-inch putt last Monday and the remarks he made broke three of his fingers."

(Copyright 1930, Publishers Syndicate)

The team will be as follows: Fullback—Art Webster (J.B.A.A.). Three-quarters—"Chuck" Aulian (J.B.A.A.), Pete Turgoose (Canadian Scottish), "Gavvy" Hume (J.B.A.A.) and Art Peil (J.B.A.A.). Five-eighths—Reg. Wenman (Canadian Scottish). Halves—Bob Tye (Canadian Scottish) and Henry Cockin (J.B.A.A.). Forwards—Cody Wemyss (Canadian Scottish), Horace Good (J.B.A.A.), Jack McDonald (J.B.A.A.), Campbell Forbes (Canadian Scottish), Dan Parfitt (J.B.A.A.), Bruce Forbes (Canadian Scottish) and Johnny Rowland (Canadian Scottish). Reserve forward, George Warnock (J.B.A.A.).

GOOD MOVE

Shifting Wenman from fullback to five-eighths is considered a wise move by every member of the selection committee. His activities as a steady last defence man were highly appreciated in the games he played, but in that position he had no opportunity to display his tricky offensive powers. Wenman is one of the best men in the province at making goals and should be an invaluable link in the backfield.

Webster has had considerable practice at fullback and can handle the ball as well as anyone in the circuit. His kicking is good, and tackling accurate.

As final preparations for the game against Vancouver the team will hold a light workout at Oak Bay Park this evening at 7:30 o'clock and will taper off in practice at the Armories Thursday at the same hour. All players will go through their paces at these practices and brush up on several new plays they intend to try against the Mainlanders.

Owing to the illness of Bob Travis, manager of the team, Phil Willis, secretary, H. J. Ketchin was named as delegate to the meeting of the

An entirely new Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell were revealed at the Dominion Theatre last night when this famous pair of screen sweethearts made their debut in "Sunny Side Up." Fox Movietone musical comedy.

Miss Gaynor, who reveals a voice of rare charm, sings three songs, including "If I Had a Talking Picture of You," the latter as a duet with Charles Farrell.

Farrell, in the role of a society man from Southampton, acquires himself creditably in a light comedy part and sings in a manner that stamps him as a real find in the talking picture musical-comedy field.

The story is fast, full of action and replete with excellent comedy. Unquestionably David Butler, the director, de-

During the filming of Columbia's "The Flying Marine," a production synchronized with dialogue, music and effects, now showing at the Playhouse Theatre, Ben Lyons and Shirley Mason received a floral tribute from some California fruit packers.

The script called for Ben Lyons and Shirley Mason to land their plane in a field where Lyons was to make passionate love to Shirley. Lyons landed in a large orange grove. The fruit packers stood around while the love scenes were being enacted. When the scenes were completed and the players were preparing to take off, the interested spectators showered them with orange blossoms.

THRILLS AND LAUGHTER IN
"GHOST TRAIN"

Brilliant Performance of Mystery Play at Royal Victoria Theatre

Gordon McLeod Scores Big Hit as "Prize Idiot" in Haunted Station

Playgoers who like thrills with their theatrical face will find plenty of them in "The Ghost Train," the mystery play which is being presented for the whole of this week at the Royal Victoria Theatre by the Gordon McLeod Players. An appreciative audience yesterday evening alternately tensed with excitement and relaxed with laughter throughout three acts of this clever thriller, which ran with extraordinary success at several leading theatres in London, and which deserves crowded houses for every performance this week.

The dingy little waiting room of a Cornish hamlet on the Great Western Railway has little suggestion of thrill about it, but the six people—a detective, a man and his wife who are constantly bickering, a honeymoon couple, an elderly spinster with a parrot, and a "prize idiot"—a man who is marooned at the station because the latter pulled the communication cord of a train when his wife blew off, meet with hair-raising adventures during an enforced wait.

According to the local Cornish tales, the station is haunted by the ghost of a stationmaster who was killed twenty years previously and by the unhappy victims of the train wreck which followed his failure to close the bridge over the river. The legend has it that the "ghost train" comes through on each anniversary of the tragedy, with all its attendant blood-curdling ringing of bells and wailing of signal lamps, and the recital of the story by the bucolic stationmaster to the marooned passengers is one of the most thrilling passages in the play.

Interest is sustained at a tense pitch throughout the play, the tension being frequently relieved by the utter asininity of the "prize idiot," who, when one's hair is about to stand on end, interjects a ludicrous remark, and by the utterances of the elderly spinster and her reactions to the drink of brandy with which she is revived at one of the shocks. The denouement is totally unexpected, according to the best traditions of mystery plays, and the nature of it must not be disclosed in these columns, or the play would be spoiled for future patrons.

As Teddy Deakin, the prize idiot, Mr. McLeod had a role which gave him ample scope for the exercise of his undoubted gifts of facial expression. His performance was one of the best he has ever given in Victoria, the difficult character being well sustained throughout with admirable restraint. Earned accolade again proved a finished actor in the role of the old stationmaster, and Dudley Somerville as the domineering husband and Gladys Bailey as the bridegroom carried their respective roles admirably.

Miss Lillian Christine showed great histrionic ability in her portrayal of the highly-strung, almost demented

NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises so to your disgust and get 1 ounce of Parment double strength and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should try this prescription a trial. (Adv.)

girl, Miss Maude Blaye was responsible for much of the comedy element in the role of the elderly, bibulous spinster, while Miss Margaret St. Barbe-West, as the bride, and Miss Ann Farrer as the resentful wife of the domineering husband, both gave an excellent performance, playing with ease and restraint. James McGrath, Herbert Leonard and Harcourt Aubrey filled minor roles adequately, rounding out a well-balanced and very meritorious performance.

Particular praise must be given to Roland Gillett, who is responsible for the stage effects. The arrival and departure of the train in the first act is most realistic, while the later passing of the "ghost train" and the supernatural effects were most cleverly achieved.

LEITCH PLAYERS
SCORE SUCCESS
IN COMEDY DRAMA

In "The Man from South Dakota," a powerful drama sparkling with flashes of hilarious comedy, the Leitch Players scored another spectacular success at the Variety Theatre last night. In this gripping comedy-drama the playwright lays bare the soul of an erring woman.

Opening in the Morals Court of the city of Chicago, the plot depicts how fate weaves into a tangled scheme the hopes of a but also finds an innocent girl just rescued from her first step along the path of sin; a kindly, humorous justice of the peace, and a lonely widow, blinded for many years and mourning a missing daughter.

As the whimsical justice of the peace, Toby Leitch given an amusing performance, realising in the opportunities for comedy this splendid characterization afforded him. And every member of the cast rose to heights of artistry in presenting this drama.

ENGLISH ACTOR
PLAYS OPPOSITE
IRENE BORDONI

"Paris," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre for a six-day run, not only brings Irene Bordoni, the French favorite, to the screen for the first time, but also marks the initial appearance on the talking picture sheet of her leading man, Jack Buchanan.

Buchanan is the idol of the British musical comedy stage. He has been twice starred in New York in "Charlot's Revue." He was chosen to play opposite Miss Bordoni because the role is that of an English musical favorite, and Buchanan is the outstanding star in that field. He is, in fact, the perfect type for the role.

When "Paris" was being cast, Buchanan was just finishing a sixteen-month run in a successful musical comedy in London. He received the cable asking him to join the Bordoni troupe and left the next day, making the journey to Hollywood from England in less than three weeks.

TO ENCOURAGE
BRIGHT PUPILS
Education Minister Voices
Hopes on Assistance For
B.C. Scholars

Hopes that British Columbia at some time in the future will adopt a scheme of assisted education that would provide for the son of a poor man even to the extent of sending him abroad for study were voiced by Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, Minister of Education, in the Legislature yesterday.

Mr. Hinchcliffe was speaking to his bill, which provides for the assistance to the extent of $250 yearly for the education of dependents of ex-soldiers. The bill was similar to one adopted in Saskatchewan, he said, but went further than the Saskatchewan Act, which provided only for orphans and the sons of pensioners. He quoted the case of a widow with five children, paying fees for them to go to High School, and thought it should be possible to help in such cases.

A commission was proposed, he said, that would study the capabilities and qualifications of the candidates seeking assistance under the proposed bill, and that commission would see that they were trained along lines for which they were suited. He looked for the day when the government could give greater assistance in encouraging students who showed special ability to become assets to the country.

PHILANTHROPIC WORKS

"Throughout his entire career Mr.

FRIEND OF LAURIER

"There have been few friendships greater than that which enjoyed both between Mr. Larkin and Sir Wilfrid

Laurier. They shared an outlook on life which was wholly similar, and their devotion to each other was proverbial. At a time when Lord Strathcona was thinking of resigning the position of High Commissioner in London, Sir Wilfrid Laurier told me it was his intention, in the event of the position becoming vacant, to appoint Mr.

Larkin as Lord Strathcona's successor.

WHEN THE KING OPENED THE NAVAL LIMITATION CONFERENCE

With the Naval Limitation Conference in London now in its second week, the above pictures of the opening session, just received in Victoria, are of great interest. The upper photo was taken while King George was delivering the opening address in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords. Before him is seen the microphone which made possible the radio broadcast which was heard by millions, including many residents of Victoria. On the King's right is seen Premier Macdonald and on his left, with a desk immediately before him, Mr. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs. In the lower picture is seen Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State of the United States and head of that country's delegation, delivering his address at the opening session.

"That was in 1911. The change of government which took place in that year left the appointment in other hands. After the return of the Liberal Party to power in 1921 when Sir George Perley, who at the time was High Commissioner, asked that his resignation be accepted it became my privilege to give effect to Sir Wilfrid's intention.

HIS GENEROSITY
"For some years before I was a member of the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier I had enjoyed both personally and politically Mr. Larkin's friendship; after Sir Wilfrid's death he permitted me to share a like intimacy. His great generosity to myself is, I believe, known to all. It was a kindness for which he expected no return and for which, indeed, no return was possible.

DID NOT SPARE HIMSELF
"When asked to accept the position of High Commissioner at London, Mr. Larkin might easily have urged that it meant great toil and sacrifice to a man of his years. But he accepted the responsibility as a duty, and in the fulfillment of the obligations of his office spared himself in no possible way.

His work during the trying years of post-war readjustment was of immense value to the Dominion and increased the prestige and public recognition of his office. His business training fitted him particularly for the task of adjusting the many financial questions which were outstanding between the British and Canadian Governments as a result of war-time undertakings. It was equally serviceable in enabling him to bring to a successful conclusion negotiations for funding and repayment of obligations of various Allied European countries. He took a leading part in securing the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle, and in the adjustment of marine insurance rates to Canadian ports. Under his direction the High Commissioner's office was active in the general work of making Canada better known in Britain and in dealing with the wide range of specific questions arising out of the Canadian Government's relations with the Government of the United Kingdom, as well as with the public interest in immigration, investment and trade.

"Mr. Larkin frequently represented Canada at international conferences and at the Assembly of the League of Nations. His last notable service in this field was in participating in the League Conference on Reparations, held during the past summer, as well as in the second session in January of this year, from which he returned to London in weakened health.

"One of Mr. Larkin's most notable and enduring services was his selection of the present commanding site on Trafalgar Square for the Canadian building, and his constant interest in its erection and equipment.

A GREAT CANADIAN

"Mr. Larkin was, above all else, a great Canadian. He believed in Canada and glorified in her past and present and future. He was loyalty itself in upholding in London the prestige of his country and of the Government he represented. To serve to the very end the Canada he loved so well would be his wish, and for the kind Providence which permitted him to enjoy to the last a full measure of strength, of helpfulness to others, and of serenity of mind, we must all be thankful.

"He leaves to Canada a splendid memory of unsparring public service, of outstanding and honorable success alike in business and in diplomacy, and of unflinching pride and faith in his country."

DR. YOUNG'S LETTER

sending this reply on to me, Dr. Young has added this remark:

"I beg leave to say that I am giving this information to the press as I consider that in such an important matter the facts should be presented in a truthful manner."

Dr. Young is quite right to wish for truthful representation; so are we. In response to numerous requests from your readers as to the facts of the case I give them herewith.

After Dr. Kegel made the speech which stirred the Illinois Anti-Vivisection Society he received a letter from that organization, which propounded nine searching questions. It was thought that the parents of Chicago were entitled to full information regarding the serum. I withhold the questions for lack of space only. The letter to Dr. Kegel closes with the remark, "We shall be forced to regard failure upon your part to answer these logical and important questions a prima facie evidence that a serious blunder has been made somewhere, either in the manufacture of the sale, or the administering of this particular serum." All that Dr. Kegel says is, apparently, that he has been grossly misrepresented and misinterpreted. He has not replied to the queries, nor has his letter to the Illinois society been printed in Chicago papers.

Anti-vivisection societies are working in the interests of animals, which are made to suffer severely in the production of serum, and they are also working to protect the public, children in particular—who may suffer through the

JOINT ACTION ON BROKERAGE

Attorney-General Introduced

Bill Before British Columbia

Legislature

Will Be Subject to Amendment After Dominion

Conference

Powers to inspect the books of brokers and close operations of any brokerage firm immediately are provided for in the Bill for Prevention of Frauds in connection with the sale of securities introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Attorney-General Pooley.

Mr. Pooley announced that it was modeled on the acts of other provinces, particularly that of Ontario. Within ten days or two weeks there would be a conference of legal representatives of all the provinces of Canada with the view of drafting uniform legislation for the whole of the provinces in Canada and, answering a question by Mr. Manson, Mr. Pooley stated that a representative of the Federal Government would be present with a view to insuring that legislation introduced in the federal legislature would be adopted. At the conference of Attorneys-General not only the question of amendments to the act would be considered but the whole question of stockbroking would be discussed. As a result of this conference he might later ask to withdraw the present bill and submit a new one with amendments.

It was most advisable, he said, to have legislation as uniform as possible so that the Attorneys-General of the different provinces could co-operate to the fullest possible extent. Then if the necessity arose the different provinces could set a zero hour when all would act at once. Answering Mr. Pattullo whether the bill provided for any action on what had happened in the past or whether it was a case of locking the stable after the horse was out, Mr. Pooley advised him to examine the bill. "We hope for something definite," he said.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 5

Benefic stars dominate to-day, according to astrology, which finds the planetary government most propitious to residents of the earth.

The early morning may be a bit depressing in its influences and it is wise to counteract all thoughts of discouragement. All who desire to discover the truth through verbal inquiry should wait until after noon. The morning hours are supposed to be subjected to a sway that makes deceit and double-dealing easy.

Breakfast table outwits may be easily started while this day's early signs prevail. The tongue should be watched. Commerce is well directed to-day, which processes tremendous development in American manufactures.

Food which is to be abundant but costly will be in great demand from foreign nations. It is forecast.

The planetary government certainly favors farmers and promises to them profits as well as many longed-for benefits.

This evening is an auspicious time for entertainment of men who have attained success. Banquets and potiches are well directed by the stars.

Some sort of a sensation is foretold for Washington, where statements will be involved in unusual incidents.

For this month much bad weather has been forecast for the United States. Floods in certain states will prevail, while other parts of the country suffer from drought, the seers prophesy.

Flight in Gemini will assure for New York City growth of business interests, wireless development and expansion of air service. A London seer prognosticates.

Persons whose birthdays it is have the assurance of a year in which loans and secret transactions prove lucky.

Children born on this day may be intense in nature and even high-tempered. The subjects of this sign probably will show a talent for leadership.

Delish L. Moody, noted evangelist, was born on this day, 1877. Other who have had this as the natal day include Napoleon Bonaparte, 1769; Sir Robert Peel, British statesman, 1788; Charles F. Adams, French landscape painter, 1817.

administration of serum. The Illinois society is justified in making the most searching inquiries as to the statements of Dr. Kegel on the radio, and the society I represent is justified in seeking to get the matter "presented in a truthful manner."

Charles Lindbergh was Happy Alone

As a Boy

To-day is the birthday of Charles Lindbergh, and it is not so many years ago that he was a little boy himself, playing in the woods in Minnesota.

When he flew off to Paris all by himself, it was not an unusual thing for him to do, for when he was a little boy he liked to be alone as much as possible. His schoolmates liked him, but they thought he was a queer boy.

His mother, though, asked him if he didn't think he ought to have a companion, to take with him on his all-day cruises on the waters of the lake.

"I have one," he protested, with a grin, picking up his dog. All the summer he was happy, with the dog as his only "crew."

FINED FOR ATTACKING LANDLORD

Fines totaling $45 were imposed on Charles Bland, who pleaded guilty in Esquimalt Police Court this morning to charges of assault and willfully damaging property. It appeared that Bland resented the notice given him by his landlord, Edward Holmwood, to vacate his house. Mr. Holmwood stated the accused had first seen him on Sturdee Street near a house which he was fixing and had shouted at him. The accused was under the influence of liquor, he said.

When he went into the house, the accused broke open the door and followed him and when told to leave, struck the informant. Mr. Holmwood said he then wrestled with the accused and got him down but let him up when he promised to go. When he got up again the accused struck him, he said.

After going outside the accused picked up a piece of water pipe and hurled it at him through a window, said Mr. Holmwood. Then he got double-bitted axe and started to break through the door. Mr. Holmwood had meanwhile phoned for the police and the accused was given in charge.

Mr. Holmwood fixed his damage at $15, declaring that in addition to the window and door a statue of Venus had also been damaged.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of $10 on the charge of damaging property and ordered the accused to pay the $15 damage. On the assault charge, a fine of $20 was ordered. Both are payable within two days or in default one month's imprisonment must be served on each charge.

A third charge of being intoxicated in a public place was withdrawn.

APPEAL HEARING IS ABANDONED

Appeal Court Dismisses Action of Rex Versus Conway

On motion by W. H. Bullock-Webster for the Crown, respondent, the appeal of Rex versus Conway, was dismissed by the Appeal Court this morning. The appeal had been abandoned, stated Mr. Bullock-Webster. The court made the necessary order.

Hearing continued in the action of P. Clark and Company versus Robinson, an appeal by Samuel Robinson from a judgment award by Judge Lempman in County Court in favor of the plaintiff, a local firm of stock-brokers.

The dispute arose over fifty-five shares of the Calgary and Edmonton Corporation, which the respondents say were ordered by the plaintiff at $12 a share, and declined to accept when the stock had fallen to in the neighborhood of $7.50 a share.

In the County Court action Mr. Robinson contended that his order had been conditional to delivery within a specified time; while the plaintiffs asserted the order was made subject to delivery "as and when" received. The appeal is taken from a judgment awarding the difference in the price level of the shares to the plaintiff. C. H. O'Halloran appeared for the defendant-appellant, and Carew Martin for the respondent firm. The appeal was dismissed. Mr. Justice Gallipal dissenting.

The pre-emptory list includes Rant versus Brown; B.C. Liquor Company Limited versus Consolidated Exporters Limited, and Rex versus Sutherland.

EAST AFRICAN LION HUNTING RATHER TAME

Herbert Leonard of Gordon McLeod Players Addresses Kiwanians

"Africa is not so dangerous as regards lions as is crossing traffic at the corner of Yates and Douglas Streets," Herbert Leonard this afternoon assured the Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel, when presenting a number of thrilling episodes in a lion-hunting expedition in East Africa with camera and rifle.

The nobility of the lion was a myth, said Mr. Leonard. The lion, in fact, was "a big swart" over-rated as a courage and daring animal. He was white settlers soon classed lions as pests, after losing livestock and negro servants.

Lions were marvelous hunters, and Mr. Leonard told of the methods they use to stalk game. They sometimes hunted in packs, and would stampede cattle enclosed in thorn fences by roaring in concert until the cattle broke down the hedge in panic.

LION KILLS "CROCK"
 Mr. Leonard told of a thrilling fight between a lion and a crocodile. Seized by the muscled when drinking, the lion leaped high in the air, swung the "crock" around and succeeded in disemboweling the saurian.

The speaker declared he would rather face a lion than many other animals. When a lion was gorged the wild game would make way for him without fear, while a hungry lion found game in flight as soon as seen. Mr. Leonard described the accidental arrival of a native at the hide-out of a lion. The animal had promptly attacked the intruder, and slew and wounded a number before being killed. Movies of the episode had been taken and had earned the lucky photographer a fortune.

Mr. Leonard was introduced by Gordon McLeod, of the McLeod Players. He was greeted from giving a scheduled address by pressure of rehearsals.

The club passed a vote of condolence with Brooke Stephenson, whose mother had been taken and had earned the large fund raised.

G. H. Stevens, president, reported that over $6,000 had been collected for sale of tuberculosis seals at Christmas. There would be over $3,000 for local

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)
Winnipeg, Feb. 4.—Wheat: Nervous and erratic during a range of slightly over two cents to-day being mostly lower during the first part of the day and higher during the latter half. The market opened half cent higher based on the strong cables, but there was a failure to the class of buying and a decline to one cent under the previous close. On this recession there was a good class of buying, part of which was credited to the pool; and partly to short covering by one large house and others.

There was a little buying by seaboard houses drifting in, all of which helped to give the market a better tone. The Chicago market was also erratic, breaking 1 1/2 cents early and then recovering 3 cents, the latter strength helping Winnipeg. Many close observers are of the opinion that the market has been pretty well liquidated and with anticipated better foreign buying the market could easily do a little better for the time being at least. Direct exportation, largely the pool, reported a fair overnight trade to hold. There was practically nothing doing in the cash grain. Bradstreet's available supplies decreased 4,531,000 bushels from total now being 434,802,000 as against 393,401,000 a year ago. The grain market appears to be a two-sided affair at this time but it was taken steady foreign buying if the rallies are to hold.

Coarse grains: These markets were easier at the start, especially barley which experienced further liquidation, but the late strength in wheat and stronger corn, helped to strengthen all markets and prices made a good recovery. There was very little doing in cash grain.

Syn: This market was firmer in sympathy with the strength in the general grain list, but trade was small and very little interest shown by crushers.

The Three Hostages

JOHN BUCHAN

It was a gorgeous day, with that funny northern light which makes noon seem like early morning. I enjoyed every hour of it, partly because I had now a definite job before me, and partly because I was in the open air, to which I properly belonged. I got no end of amusement watching the wild life—the cormorants and other ducks on the little islands, and the seals, with heads as round as Medina's, that slipped off the skerries at our approach. The air was chilly and fresh, but when we turned the corner of the Merdalford out of the sea wind and the sun climbed the sky, it was as warm as June. A big flat island we passed, all short turf and rocky outcrops, was pointed out to me by Johan as Flackholm. Soon we were shaping due east in an inlet, which was surrounded by dark steep hills, with snow lying in the gullies. I had Boswell with me in two volumes; the first second I was now starting on, when I had read in the steamer, and I suppose fell overboard, through my getting up in a hurry to look at a flock of ducks. So I presented the odd volume to Johan, and surrendered myself to tobacco and meditation.

In the afternoon the inlet narrowed to a fjord, and the walls of hill grew steeper. They were noble mountains, cut sharp like the edge of Drakensberg, and crowned with a line of snow so that they looked like a sugar-coated cake that had been sliced. Streams came out of the upper snow-breasts and hurried themselves down the steep slopes above a shimmering veil of mist, and below a torrent of green water tumbling over pebbles to the sea. The landscape and the weather lulled me into a delectable peace which refused to be disturbed by any "looking before or after," as some poet says. Newher was ahead of me—we never lost track of his launch—and it was my business to see what he was up to and to keep myself out of his sight. The ways and means of it I left to fortune to provide.

By and by the light grew dimmer, and the fjord grew narrower, so that dusk fell on us, though, looking back down the inlet, we could see a bright twilight. I assumed that Newher would go on to Merdalf and the fjord's head, where the Skarno entered the sea, and had decided to stop at Hauke, a village two miles short of it, on the south shore. We came to Hauke about half-past eight, in a wonderful purple moored. I turned down the road to it, for it seemed a place to gather information.

I said good evening to the men, and was just about to ask them for advice about quarters, when the man who had been looking out to sea turned round at the sound of my voice. He seemed an oddish fellow, with rather a stoop in his back, wearing an ancient shooting jacket. The light was bad, but there was something in the cut of his jacket that struck me as familiar, though I couldn't put a name to it.

I spoke to the Norwegians in English, but it was obvious that I had hit on a bunch of indifferent linguists. They shook their heads, and one pointed to the village, as if to tell me that I would be better understood there. Then the man in the shooting jacket spoke.

"Perhaps I can help you," he said. "There is a good inn in Merdalf, which at this season is not full."

He spoke excellent English, but it was obvious that he wasn't an Englishman. There was an unmistakable emphasis of the gutturals.

"I doubt the inn may be too good for my purse," I said. "I am on a walking tour and must look cheaply."

He laughed pleasantly. "There may be accommodation elsewhere, Peter Bajer may have a spare bed. I am going that way, sir, and can direct you."

He had turned towards me, and his figure caught the beam of the riding-light of the motor launch. I saw a thin sunburnt face with a very pleasant expression, and an untidy grizzled beard. Then I knew him, and I could have shouted with amusement at the chance which had brought us two together again.

We walked side by side up the jetty and on to the wharf, where we met before, Herr Gaudin.

"Do you remember a certain Dutchman called Cornelius Brandt whom you entertained at your country house one night in December '15?"

He looked searchingly in my face. "I remember," he said. "I also remember a Mr. Richard Hanau, one of Guggenheim's engineers, with whom I talked at Constantinople."

"The same," I said. "For a moment I was not clear how he was going to take the revelation, but his next action reassured me, and I saw that I had not been wrong in my estimate of the one German I have ever wholeheartedly liked. He began to laugh, a friendly tolerant laugh."

"Kritik Turken!" he cried. "It is indeed romantic. I have often wondered whether I should see or hear of you again, and behold! you step out of the darkness of a Norwegian fjord."

"You bear no malice?" I said. "I served my country as you served yours. I played fair as you played fair."

"Kritik Turken!" he cried. "We are gentlemen; also we are not children. I rejoice to see that you have survived the War. I have always wished you well, for you are a very bold and brave man."

"Not a bit of it," I said. "Only lucky."

"By what name shall I call you now—Brandt or Hanau?"

"For the present I am calling myself Cornelius Brandt—for a reason which I am going to tell you. I had suddenly made up my mind to take Gaudin into my full confidence. He seemed to have been sent by Providence for that purpose, and I was not going to let such a chance slip."

But at my words he stopped me short.

"Mr. Hanau," he said. "I do not want your confidence. You are still engaged, and I am in your country's service. I do not question your motive, but remember I am a German, and I cannot be party to the pursuit of one of my countrymen, however base it may think him."

I could only stare. "But I am in my country's service," I stammered. "I left it at the Armistice, and I'm a farmer now."

"Do English farmers travel in Norway under false names?"

"That's a private business which I want to explain to you. I assure you there is no German in it. I want to keep an eye on the doings of a fashionable English doctor."

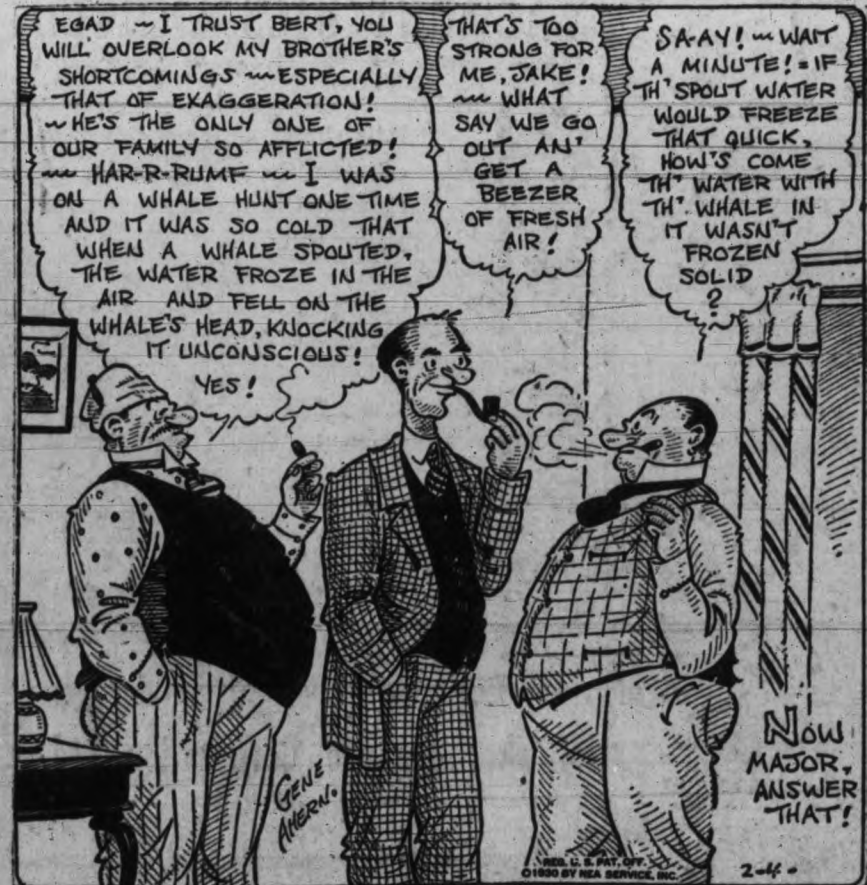

"I must believe you," he said after a pause. "Two hours ago a man arrived in the launch you see anchored out there. He is a fisherman and is now at the inn. That man is known to me—too well known. He is a German, who during the War served Germany in secret ways, in America and elsewhere. I did not love him and I think he did my country grievous ill, but that is a matter for us Germans to settle, and not for foreigners."

"I know your man as Dr. Newher of Wimpole Street."

Uncle Wiggily's Danger Plane

(Copyright, 1930)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Once upon a time when Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his hollow stump bungalow reading the paper, trying to find out when spring was coming, so he could nibble green clover, he heard much shouting and laughter out in the yard where some of the rabbit children were playing.

"Making a snow man, I suppose," said Uncle Wiggily, out loud as he often spoke when he was reading the paper.

"Oh, no! they aren't making a snow man," squeaked Nurse Jane Wuzzy, who had just finished giving the breakfast dishes their morning bath. No, indeed!

"What are they doing then?" asked Uncle Wiggily, watching the muskrat lady housekeeper as she tied a bunch of feathers on the end of her tail to dust the piano.

"They are looking up in the sky," answered Miss Pussy Wuzzy.

"Perhaps they are looking for more snow," suggested Uncle Wiggily, laying aside the paper. "Though goodness knows we have had enough this winter. As long as we have it we must make the best of it," spoke the rabbit gentleman. "And as snow is part of winter I think I shall go out and see what the children are watching."

"And tell them it is nearly time to go to school," begged Nurse Jane. "Their mother doesn't want them to be late."

"I'll tell them," Uncle Wiggily said. As he hopped out of the bungalow he heard some of the children shouting and calling.

"Aeroplane! Aeroplane! Look at the aeroplane!"

"Ha! So there's an aeroplane flying over my bungalow, is there?" murmured Mr. Longears. "Well, I suppose one of those mail planes. I hope the pilot doesn't fall out or come crashing down on my roof as planes sometimes fall. For it isn't any fun to have your roof smashed in winter when snow may come in and freeze your toes."

"Kritik Turken!" he cried. "It is indeed romantic. I have often wondered whether I should see or hear of you again, and behold! you step out of the darkness of a Norwegian fjord."

"You bear no malice?" I said. "I served my country as you served yours. I played fair as you played fair."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Can a Girl's Disposition Be Tried Out Before Marriage?—Why the Dancer is a Risky Proposition As a Wife for the Domestic-minded Man

DEAR MISS DIX—Will you please settle an argument? A claims that when he finds a girl that he considers seriously he is going to try out her disposition before marriage by arguing, scolding and criticizing her, and telling her what she can do and what she cannot do. B says that a man has no right to criticize, or scold, or attempt to dictate to a girl before they are married. What do you think?

ANSWER—It is a thing it would be an excellent thing if men and women showed each other their worst sides, and gave each other samples of their disposition and temper before marriage. But I also think that if they did that there would be a terrific slump in the matrimonial market.

Perhaps there is no deeper instinct in the human breast than that which fills us with resentment at being stung in a bargain, being taken in, fooled, flimflammed. It is not that what we got is so bad, or that it isn't worth the price we paid. It is that we were outwitted and deceived and didn't get what we thought we were getting that keeps us peeved.

It is this feeling that underlies what we call the disillusion and disappointment of marriage. The man or woman we married is no more what we thought he or she was than if he or she was a different individual. To our amazement we find that we are married to strangers who have an entirely different set of qualities from those that lured us to the altar.

In his courting days when John goes to see Arabella he is shaven and shorn and pressed and perfumed. He spends hours upon hours telling her how beautiful and wonderful and angelic she is, and how superior to all other women. He racks his brains to think of things to do to amuse her and please her, and to take her to the movies, to the theatre, to the opera, and naturally Arabella thinks that she is getting for a husband a man who looks like a sheik, who will be a perpetual lover and a generous provider.

Imagine, then, the shock it is to her to find out that he is slovenly in his personal habits, and that she has to lead him to the bathtub. Picture her chagrin when he is always knocking her faults, and holding up other women to her as an example of what she should do. Fancy her disappointment when he never pays her a compliment after marriage, and she discovers that she has to cook even the money for the house-keeping out of his hermetically closed pockets.

Also, in the days of courtship Arabella was so mild and sweet and amiable that butter wouldn't have melted in her mouth. She was all hung upon his every word, and begged him to tell over again about how complacent, and whatever John wanted to do was the law to her. She made that perfect wonderful sale to Smith and Jones, and she laughed at all of his jokes and enjoyed his stories. Naturally, this led John to believe that if he married Arabella he would get a second Patient Griselda for a wife, and a clause that would always be giving him the glad hand, and that he could always pose as an oracle in his own family.

Imagine, then, his surprise after marriage, when he discovers that Arabella has a nasty temper and a wicked tongue, and that she is a champion fretter, and a perpetual nagger. Picture his chagrin when she yawns in his face when he tries to tell her about his business and begs him, for pity's sake, not to repeat that old wheeze that she has heard a thousand times, and when she plainly gives him to understand that she considers him a sap because he doesn't make as much money as some other man makes.

Certainly it would save a lot of disappointment if John and Arabella would show themselves in their true colors before marriage. Arabella would have nothing to complain of if when John came a-courting he had put in an appearance in a soiled collar and with a three days' stubble of beard on his face, and if he had given her proof of his parsimony, and told her plainly of her faults and her shortcomings. Nor could John feel that he had been gold-bricked if before marriage Arabella had given him a taste of the hepecking he would be subjected to, and the curtain lectures he would have to listen to if he married her. Then they could either take matrimony, or leave it. And, believe me, they would mostly leave it.

But A's plan of disenchanting the party of the other part before marriage will never become popular because it is against nature. The same power that gives a brighter hue to the feathers of a bird in the mating season bids men and women put their best foot foremost when they are courting.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am ready to love with a chorus girl who is a dancer. I want to marry her, but she insists on going on with her career even after our marriage. She refuses to leave the stage. Will you be good enough to advise me whether a marriage with such a girl would be advisable for a man who is domestic and wishes to have a real home and bring up a good, honest family.

A CONSTANT READER.

ANSWER—I should consider such a marriage most inadvisable for both you and the girl. It would be bound to end disastrously because it would lack the one thing that is most important in marriage, and that is for the husband and wife to have the same interests, the same ideals and the same goal.

If you want to be happy though married you must pick out a wife who has the qualities you desire in a wife. Otherwise she is as surely bound to be a disappointment to you, as it would be if you needed a delivery truck and bought a sports automobile, or if you were hungry and craved rare roast beef and potatoes and you ordered a flubdub mess of whipped cream.

In your case you want a domestic wife who will be a fireside companion. You want a wife who will be content to stay at home and have babies, and go to market, and have a real exciting day cooking spinach a new way, and order to get that kind of a wife you have got to marry a girl who is domestic-minded, and who loves children, and who thrills at the sight of a pot and pan in a shop window.

It is folly to pick out a chorus girl with quicksilver in her toes and expect her to enjoy tramping the family treadmill. It is insanity to expect a girl who has lived on excitement not to find home life dull. It is madness to expect one who is used to the bright lights to be content to spend her evenings darning stockings across the drop light from you.

Men make the mistake of thinking that love compensates for everything to a woman, and that when they are married they are content to give up the careers for which they have fitted themselves, but this is very seldom true.

The woman who has had any public success has tasted blood and she hankers for it the balance of her life, and no matter how good and kind her husband is to her she is nearly always restless and dissatisfied and longing to go back to her old life.

Especially is this true of women on the stage. Many of them are lovely and charming and of great generosity and sweetness of character, but they are a risky matrimonial proposition.

DOROTHY DIX.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY

There probably is no part of the household equipment that receives harder wear than the kitchen utensils.

Proper care and convenient storage of kitchen utensils means longer and better service for the articles and greater efficiency for the cook. Careless handling shortens the life of many a kitchen tool. Scraping with steel knives ruins not only the knife but scratches on the otherwise marvellous surface. Scouring with inferior cleaning agents scratches metal and chips glass.

ADVICE ON KITCHENWARE—With a few exceptions, all utensils should be washed in hot water, thoroughly rinsed with scalding water and wiped dry with a clean, dry dish towel.

A convenient way to store utensils is to hang in a cupboard arranged with hooks or place them on well spaced shelves. If the cupboard is placed in the kitchen so that it is accessible to the rays of the sun, it's desirable to leave the cupboard door open each day for a sunning.

The weight, balance, shape and material of the handle and the position of the lip are all important factors to consider when selecting kitchenware. Utensils that are easily handled mean much to a housekeeper and do their share toward preventing fatigue. Lips on both sides of sauce pans and frying pans are convenient, but if there is only one, it should be on the side that particularly suits the user.

HOW TO PICK SIZES

The size of cooking utensil is determined partly by the size of the family, and the amounts usually cooked. Several sizes should be included in the equipment, however, for the sake of both economy and convenience.

The material chosen depends largely on the purpose of the utensil. Certain materials hold heat evenly, others are light to handle, some resist wear, others may go directly to the table, and so on, each material from iron to glass now having a definite place in the kitchen.
